

WORK ON PLANS FOR RIVERFRONT APARTMENTS TO START AT ONCE

Go-Ahead for 960-Unit Project Is Given When Aldermen Declare 15-Block Area Is Blighted.

Architects will begin work at once drafting plans for 960 apartments on the St. Louis riverfront, it was announced today by Paul W. Lashly, St. Louis attorney associated in the project with Lewis Kitchen of Kansas City.

The go-ahead signal was given yesterday when the Board of Aldermen passed a bill declaring that a 15-block area opposite the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial tract is blighted.

The action makes it possible for private builders to proceed under the Missouri urban redevelopment law, which provides tax benefits.

The next step will be to draw up a plan for redevelopment of five blocks with apartments and shops. This plan will be submitted to the City Planning Commission, the Art Commission and the Board of Aldermen.

Kitchen will request approval of the plan and power of eminent domain in assembling his site. He hopes to begin construction next spring.

Although the bill was approved 26 to 6, some aldermen expressed misgivings over measures of this type.

Discrimination Rumor.

Alderman Wayne F. Smith Jr. (Dem.), Eighteenth Ward, a Negro, said he was concerned about rumors that discrimination would be practiced against Negroes in the occupancy of the Plaza Apartments now under construction.

(Federal law specifically prohibits such discrimination, and in accepting Government aid the Plaza Apartment builders have agreed that there will be no discrimination.)

Alderman Smith said Negroes are not being given jobs on the apartment projects at wage levels that would permit them to occupy the apartments when they are available for rent.

If passage of this ordinance will create additional islands of segregation, it will have to be opposed to this type in the future," he said. He expressed the view, however, that the project was a good one and suggested that some policy of "open occupancy" ought to be established for the future.

Objects to 'Package.'

Alderman Joseph B. McDonald (Rep.), Twenty-fifth Ward, said he was for the bill but was critical of the way it had been handled.

"I, for one, am sick and tired of having a package handed us and having to enact it whole," he said. "This materially affects a group of people who have an equity in this area and who are being ignored. Nothing has been said to these people about their future status. I believe they would fully subscribe to this plan if informed of it, but they are being ignored."

McDonald said he was referring to the present owners of property in the blighted area.

Alderman Harold I. Elbert (Rep.), Twenty-eighth Ward, said he was concerned about the delay that occurred in developing

STRAUSS'S FATE RESTS WITH 10 TO 15 SENATORS

They Haven't Committed Selves Thus Far—Vote Expected to Be Close.

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—The fate of Lewis L. Strauss's nomination as Secretary of Commerce appears to be in the hands of 10 to 15 Senators who have not publicly committed themselves on how they will vote.

They are both Republicans and Democrats. Seven Democrats have said they will vote to confirm Strauss. One Republican, William Langer of North Dakota, says he will vote against him. Assuming that all the other 33 Republicans voted for him, Strauss would still need at least nine more Democratic votes to put him over the top. But he cannot necessarily assume that all the Republicans will vote for him, although the tightest kind of G.O.P. party discipline is being invoked.

Senator Warren G. Magnuson (Dem.), Washington, yesterday told reporters he thinks 10 to 15 Senators have not made up their minds. Other Senate observers agreed with the figure.

Bitter Dispute.

Thus stand the skirmish lines in what has become by far the bitterest dispute between the Democratic Senate and President Eisenhower in his six years in the White House.

Only nine times in the history of the Republic has the Senate refused to confirm a President's nomination to a Cabinet post. Most of those were in the early years. The last time it happened was in 1925 when Calvin Coolidge nominated Charles Warren to be Secretary of Commerce.

Everyone agrees the vote on Strauss is going to be close. And it may take weeks before the Senate gets around to it. Formal debate on the matter finally began yesterday. On Monday the Senate takes up other business before getting back to Strauss.

Many Senators expect to say many words for and against the man that Mr. Eisenhower wants as his Secretary of Commerce. The President has said he would not withdraw Strauss's nomination even if Strauss asked him to, and there is no indication Strauss would entertain the notion.

Magnuson, chairman of the Commerce Committee which voted for Strauss by a 9-to-8 margin, said yesterday at the start of debate: "I don't think anybody's appointed because he's appointed."

Half Truth Charge.

Like other opponents, Magnuson has accused Strauss of dealing in half truths and of failing to co-operate with Congress.

BOY, 2, DRIVES AUTO, DOESN'T DENT A FENDER

DES MOINES, Ia., June 6 (AP)—Joel Baker has a clean driving record for a 2-year-old—in reverse gear. Joel and his sister, Marcie, 4, were in the auto in a church parking lot.

Marcie jumped out, letting out a whoop just as Joel got the family car in gear. Dad—the Rev. E. L. Baker—came running, but too late.

Joel took off backward, shot between a stump and some trees and skirted other trees for 300 yards.

There wasn't a scratch on Joel or the car when he came to a gentle stop 300 yards down a hill from the parking lot.

RESTLESS SIREN IN DETROIT GOES OFF ON ITS OWN

DETROIT, June 6 (AP)—A restless air raid siren kept a lot of east side Detroiters awake yesterday. First it moaned, then it squeaked for 45 minutes.

The siren, atop a fire department station, apparently developed a short circuit. At 1:20 a.m., there were a few moans. Then at 2:50 a brief shriek. And at 4:30 it really let go.

The 10 firemen in the station, almost shaken out of their boots backed out an aerial truck and sent three firemen up on the roof to pull wires and disconnect fuses.

But before they managed to shut it off, at 5:15 a.m., the police department received about 200 telephone calls and the fire department got almost as many. The wail could be heard two miles away.

3200 STRIKERS CARRIED OUT OF JAPANESE MINE

Police Move Them Bodily After Sit-Down in Government-Owned Colliery.

FUKUOKA, Japan, June 6 (UPI)—Police broke up a sit-down strike at the Shime coal mines today by carrying out the 3200 participants bodily, one by one.

A number of policemen and pickets were injured in scuffles, but there were no reports of anyone being hurt seriously. It was the first violence over a government decision to sell the colliery because of low coal reserves.

About 1200 policemen escorted two busloads of surveyors for the government railway corporation past pickets into the mine compounds. Workers had accused the surveyors of estimating too low a potential yield for the mines, thus indicating they were no longer worth operating.

PAYS FINE TO STAY IN JAIL

DETROIT, June 6 (AP)—"Pay $50 or serve 10 days in county jail," Traffic Judge George T. Murphy told Mrs. Hassie Dole who had pleaded guilty to a drunken driving charge.

"I'll pay the fine," she replied, "I have to get back to work." Mrs. Dole is a matron at the county jail.

RACING CAR HITS CROWD, 26 HURT AT ST. JOSEPH

Auto Lands Upside Down Among Spectators—Driver's Son, 8, Is Among Injured.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 6 (UPI)—A racing automobile hurtled through the air and slammed upside down into a crowd last night, injuring 26 persons including the son of the driver.

Several may have been saved from being crushed when a man grabbed one wheel and managed to hold on and even lift it while others pulled victims from under the car.

Albert M. Nield, the driver, escaped injury. He did not know his son, Ronny Lee, 8 years old, had been in the crowd until his wife, Betty, rushed up and told him. The boy suffered a head injury.

The crowd of 600 at Beverly Speedway panicked. Many rushed to the scene to see if relatives or friends were hurt. Some of the injured lying on the ground were trampled.

Guard Fence Smashed.

The car went out of control at more than 70 miles an hour. It went over a 12-foot earthen embankment and smashed through an eight-foot guard fence. It landed among spectators standing beneath an announcer's booth at the center of the grandstand.

It was the first race of the evening. Four cars were entered in the four-lap event.

A. E. Timmons is the man who seized the car's wheel. "The first thing I saw was the car coming through the air," Timmons said. "We couldn't run. We just had to stand there and take it."

One wheel struck Timmons a glancing blow on the shoulder and he grabbed it without realizing it.

"The front wheel came down on me. I held it up for awhile. How I don't know because I couldn't do it now. They got some people out from under it," Timmons said.

Boy Left in Pits.

Nield said he left his son in the pits, but while he was on the track, an official cleared the pit of all unauthorized persons. The boy went to the grandstand. His mother was seated in a car at one end of the track.

Nield said a competitor, Jerry Hayes of Topeka, Kan., forced him off the track on the last lap.

"Hayes and I came out of the turn together," Nield said. "I was on the outside and he came up alongside me and we gradually kept working toward the bank."

"His wheels got against mine and there was no place for me to go. That's all I remember until after it happened. "The car landed upside down and someone tried to unfasten my safety belt. Someone grabbed me. There were people running around and I saw some lying on the ground, bleeding. That's when I knew some people were hurt."

"I saw them pick up the car and get a man and woman out from under it."

HOUSE GROUP URGES OVERSEER TO CURB WASTE IN FOREIGN AID

Foreign Affairs Committee Recommends $3,642,600,000, $266,800,000 Below President's Request.

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—A House committee urges naming a special overseer of the foreign aid program to guard against alleged waste, inefficiency and graft.

The Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday recommended a $3,642,600,000 foreign aid bill for the year starting July 1. This is $266,800,000 less than President Eisenhower wanted.

The committee's majority report said the program's administrators have not kept close enough tabs on it. The report suggested creation of a new post of inspector general and controller of foreign aid at $19,000 a year.

This inspector general, the report said, would report only to an under secretary of State and would be independent of the International Co-operation Administration, which runs foreign aid. He would have broad authority to set fiscal controls and supervise overseas operations.

Bad Administration.

The committee majority said investigations had shown waste and bad administration. A four-member minority report went further. It said "in one instance at least, graft and corruption" were found in foreign aid operations. No details were given. It called for a sweeping investigation of the whole program.

The minority report said foreign aid has failed to achieve mutual security. Its military phase is often excessive, it said, and sometimes has no relation to the threat of Soviet aggression.

The minority said it was concerned "over certain unintended effects which this (military) assistance has had or may still have in the less developed areas of Asia, Africa and Latin America."

This apparently referred to charges that Latin American dictators have used American weapons to maintain their power, and that France has used United States-supplied arms against nationalists in North African territories.

Grants for Israel.

The report also said economic aid grants should be continued to Israel for another year. As originally proposed, the Administration bill provided only loans to Israel.

Meanwhile, Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem.), Massachusetts, said the Administration, by not supporting one of his foreign aid proposals, is hampering efforts to loosen Moscow's control over its European satellites.

He said the Administration has taken a stand against inclusion in its $3,500,000,000 foreign aid bill of vast new presidential authority to provide financial and economic assistance behind the Iron Curtain.

Under an amendment by Kennedy, the President would be given discretionary power to provide financial and economic aid to any country except Russia, Red China and Communist North Korea.

MARSHALL SAID TO BE 'GREATEST LIVING AMERICAN'

WASHINGTON, June 6 (UPI)—Gen. George C. Marshall was praised as the "greatest living American" in tributes paid to him in the Senate yesterday on the twelfth anniversary of the Marshall Plan.

The all-time former Secretary of State and chief of staff also received a message of gratitude from the 17 Western nations which benefited from Marshall Plan aid after World War II.

G. W. von Arnim, Washington representative of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation, visited the Army's Walter Reed Army Medical Center to deliver the message. Marshall, now 78 years old, has suffered several strokes and is partially paralyzed.

In leading the Senate tributes, Democratic majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said that nature had combined in Marshall "the man of ideas and the man of action."

"All Americans everywhere, of the old generation and the new, owe this greatest living American a debt which even the best informed of us are only dimly beginning to understand," he said.

Marshall proposed the aid plan that bears his name in a speech at Harvard University on June 5, 1947.

WEST CONSIDERS SETTING TIME LIMIT AT GENEVA TO FORCE POINT OF DECISION

Khrushchev Threatens to Put Rocket Bases in Balkans

Premier Warns West Step Will Be Taken If It Ignores Move to Make Zone Atom Free.

MOSCOW, June 6 (UPI)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev warned today that if the West refused to go along with a Communist-inspired atom-free zone in the Balkans Russia would establish rocket bases in Albania and Bulgaria.

He said on his return to Moscow from a visit to Albania and Hungary that the idea of a de-nuclearized area in the Balkans had met with wide support from countries in the area, including Yugoslavia.

He repeated his warnings to Italy and Greece not to accept Western missiles.

The warning was a repetition of threats Khrushchev made originally during his speech-making swing through Albania in which he repeatedly told the West to keep their missiles out of Italy, Greece and Turkey. The Soviet Premier said United States missiles so near the Russian satellites constituted a threat that would not be ignored.

It was his first mention of Bulgaria as a possible base for Soviet missiles. Khrushchev said any attack on Albania would be equivalent to an attack on the Soviet Union itself.

"It would seem," Khrushchev said, "that the most favorable conditions have been created for consolidation of peace in the Balkans."

"The Soviet government believes it would be most sensible to set up in the Balkans a rocket-free, non-atomic zone under mutual control."

"If this proposal meets with no support and the aggressive policy of the Western powers is carried on in the Balkans, the Soviet Union, together with all the countries of the Warsaw Pact, will be forced to set up rocket bases closer to the bases of the aggressors."

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union could cover opposition bases from its own territory. "But this question arises," he said. "If rockets are to be set up against us in the territory of Greece and Italy, why should we fire on them from a long distance when we could destroy the opponents' bases with small rockets from the territory of Albania and Bulgaria?"

"Conditions in Albania and Bulgaria are exceptionally favorable for the setting up of rockets. There are high mountains,

ALLIES IN FRANCE OBSERVE D-DAY'S 15TH ANNIVERSARY

OMAHA BEACH, France, June 6 (AP)—Today is the fiftieth anniversary of D-Day, when Allied troops invaded France and started a military sweep across Europe that ended 11 months later in the World War II defeat of Nazi Germany.

Veterans of the first hour of the historic assault on Normandy mingled with French residents, official representatives and relatives of the dead during the ceremonies marking the anniversary.

Wreaths were laid and prayers said at a memorial at the American cemetery at St. Laurent, where 9388 graves slope in neat rows toward the landing beach.

On Omaha Beach a monument was dedicated to the 116th Infantry Regiment of the Twenty-ninth Division which made the landing here at H-hour on June 6, 1944. A delegation of Virginia members of the 116th Infantry participated.

Today the setting was peaceful—but the rubble of war still littered the invasion coast.

BOMARC, GENIE SCORE AGAINST TWO JET DRONES

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla., June 6 (AP)—A ground-launched Bomarc missile and an air-launched Genie rocket successfully attacked two jet drones yesterday after being fired at the same time by a ground control system.

The high-speed drones were attacked over the Gulf of Mexico about 115 miles from Eglin. The IM-98A Bomarc made a direct hit on one of the pilotless planes and knocked it from the sky.

The MB-1 Genie, fired from a manned F101B Voodoo, scored a planned near-miss on the other drone. The Air Force pronounced the project "100 per cent successful."

The firings were controlled by the SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) system of the Montgomery air defense sector at Gunter Air Force Base, Ala.

OPPOSITION TO ADENAUER DECISION GROWS

Chancellor Subjected to Criticism by Western Press, Even in Own Country.

BONN, June 6 (AP)—Konrad Adenauer retired to the privacy of his Rhine valley home today to ride out the tempest of adverse criticism rising from his turnaround decision to remain on as Chancellor.

The West German press led the critical onslaught but attacks on the decision came from foreign newspapers as well, some of which have long been supporters of the 83-year-old leader.

Die Welt, the influential Hamburg paper, termed the day of Adenauer's decision "a black day."

The Tokyo Shimbun, a pro-Western paper, said Adenauer has now emerged as "a powerful dictator" to be likened to Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Communist China's Chou-En Lai.

In Britain, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said the underlying reason for Adenauer's determination to hang on to office "is that he wants to oppose Britain's policy to Russia." The paper said Britain was willing to make a compromise with Moscow, but Adenauer "wants to be tough."

FOREIGN CHIEFS GET ABSOLUTELY NOWHERE IN TWO HOURS OF DEBATE

Gromyko Stands Pat on Berlin Demand—His Rock Bottom Offer Is Expected Near End of Talks.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA, June 6 (AP)—Andrei Gromyko and the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France debated the future of Berlin for two hours today. Informants said they "got absolutely nowhere."

In a secret session at the residence of Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain, Gromyko stood pat on Russia's demand that the Western powers give up their occupation rights in West Berlin.

Lloyd, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Maurice Couve de Murville of France were understood to have told him they would never give in or compromise on this issue.

Another secret meeting was set for Monday afternoon.

Time Limit May Be Set.
Western officials were talking meanwhile of setting a time limit for ending the foreign ministers conference to force it to a point of decision.

East-West negotiations over the future of Berlin appeared stalled at the end of four weeks of sparring—both out in the open and in private sessions.

Western diplomats believe Gromyko probably will make his rock bottom offer for a Berlin agreement and a summit meeting in the last 48 hours of the conference.

They think Gromyko is awaiting new instructions from Premier Khrushchev.

Gromyko said he did not plan to leave Geneva this weekend but speculation continued in the Western camp that he might fly to Moscow to consult with Khrushchev personally.

In Berlin East German Communist party boss Walter Ulbricht declared that Western proposals concerning Berlin are "completely unrealistic."

"It is simply impossible," Ulbricht said, "to retain the status quo of a tinderbox," he said.

Western officials said privately the three Allied Ministers hold slight hopes of any immediate progress for resolving the problem of free access to West Berlin and related issues. They feel Gromyko cannot give a final answer to their insistence the Soviets remove threats to West Berlin until he gets further high policy decisions from the Kremlin.

The three Western foreign ministers agreed among themselves before the outset of the conference they would wear down Gromyko at his own waiting game. That is still the official Western line, but Herter has reportedly told his allies he was becoming concerned about the duration of the talks.

Western Effort Fails.

It was learned that at a dinner meeting Thursday night the Western ministers tried casually to sound out Gromyko on how much longer the conference should run, but he declined to be drawn out on this point.

The semi-public session at the Palace of Nations yesterday brought only a fresh round of argument on the old positions so far as Berlin is concerned. But it did produce a new maneuver by Gromyko.

The Soviet Foreign Minister requested concrete plans from the West on two general proposals made three weeks ago in the Western package program for a German peace settlement. The package was rejected by the Russians at that time.

Gromyko asked for more information on the proposal for a non-aggression declaration by the United States, Britain, France and Russia. He also wanted to know what the Western ministers had in mind when they suggested formation of a zone of limited armed forces in central Europe.

Conditional Proposals.

As advanced by the West, both these propositions were conditioned on Soviet acceptance of the plan for German reunification in advance of a German peace treaty. Gromyko wants to cut that link and treat them as separate issues.

Herter, Lloyd and De Murville did not give an immediate reply.

Feminine Names Selected For This Year's Big Winds

WASHINGTON, June 6 (UPI)—The Weather Bureau yesterday designated feminine names from Arlene to Zasu for this season's hurricanes.

But if there are no more tropical storms and hurricanes this year than last, the names through Judith will suffice. They are Arlene, Beulah, Cindy, Debra, Edith, Flora, Gracie, Hannah and Irene. Of the 10 storms last year only Alma and Ella reached the United States coastline, both striking Texas. Alma never reached hurricane intensity.

Other names for this year's storms are: Kristy, Lois, Marsha, Nellie, Orla, Penny, Quella, Rachel, Sophie, Tanya, Udele, Vicki, Wilma, Xcel and Yasmin.

DEMOCRATS HIT TREASURY PLAN TO TRADE LOANS FOR U.S. BONDS

Charge Proposal to Exchange 4 Pct. Mortgages for 2 3/4 Pct. Notes Is Device to Balance Budget.

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—An Administration plan to exchange Government-held mortgages for Government bonds was criticized by Democratic Senators yesterday as a costly budget balancing device.

Senators John Sparkman of Alabama, Paul H. Douglas of Illinois and William Proxmire of Wisconsin challenged testimony by Under Secretary of the Treasury Julian B. Baird that it was a sound proposal.

"I just don't see how the Government stands to gain by such a transaction," said Sparkman, presiding at a Senate Banking Committee hearing.

"I can't make it any clearer," Baird told him. "It is a complicated matter."

Douglas contended the effect would be "to make a present to someone" of $15,000,000 to begin with, and as much as $40,000,000 in the long run, without any real benefit to the Government.

Proxmire said the only substantial benefit to come out of the transaction as far as he could see would be to enable President Eisenhower to claim that he is balancing the budget in the 1960 fiscal year starting July 1.

4 Pct. Loans for 2 3/4 Pct. Bonds. Under the plan the Federal National Mortgage Association would exchange 4 per cent mortgage loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration for 2 3/4 per cent Treasury bonds.

As outlined by the Administration, the plan calls for the exchange of $335,000,000 worth of these mortgages; but Baird said eventually the total might run to one billion dollars if market conditions are favorable.

J. Stanley Baughman, president of FNMA, agreed that each $1,000,000 worth of mortgages exchanged represented a possible loss to the Government of $40,000—or a total of $40,000,000 if the full one billion dollars worth were exchanged.

Baughman testified, however, he believes FNMA may receive a considerable number of bids in excess of the face value of the mortgages.

The bonds received in exchange for the mortgages would be returned to the Treasury and retired, thus reducing the total of the federal debt.

A Receipt Item. Retirement of the bonds would be reflected in the budget as a receipt item, credited against expenditures of FNMA.

The bonds involved in the proposed exchange are non-marketable, investment Series B, maturing in 1980. However, holders of the bonds have the right to convert them into five-year Treasury notes.

Baird said the bonds are being converted into short-term issues at a rate of a billion dollars a year and the Treasury believes it may have to refinance all of them in the next few years at 4 per cent or higher.

For this reason, he said, the Treasury would like to retire the bonds involved in the proposed exchange and regards the plan as a fair way to carry out a law requiring the orderly liquidation of FNMA mortgages at minimum loss.

The proposed exchange requires no legislation, but Douglas said that as of now he would favor a bill to block it. He urged a thorough study of the plan by the committee staff.

W. BERLIN GETS ANOTHER THREAT OF RED BLOCKADE

BERLIN, June 6 (AP)—An East German Communist official warned today that West Berlin may be blockaded temporarily if the West German presidential election is held in the city.

The threat came from Gerhard Eisler, who formerly lived in the United States and is now a top East German propaganda official.

Writing in the Communist Berliner Zeitung, Eisler said East German workers had told him that if West German plans are not cancelled "then we shouldn't allow a single transport into West Berlin as long as the Bundestag meets in West Berlin."

The Bundestag, lower house of the West German Parliament, has been planning to convene July 1 in West Berlin as part of the federal assembly to elect a successor to President Theodor Heuss.

Symbolic Demonstration. The West German government, whose seat is in Bonn, had intended the meeting as a symbolic demonstration that Berlin is still regarded as the capital of all Germany.

The East German regime, however, argues that West Berlin is actually part of East Germany as the city is 110 miles inside the Communist border.

There have recently been reports from the foreign ministers conference in Geneva that the Western Allies have suggested it would be better to cancel the plans to hold the election in West Berlin.

The Allies, as occupiers of West Berlin, have the final word so as to what happens in the city.

Some West German officials, including West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, have declared that cancellation of the West German plans would mean a face-lifting retreat. Brandt will fly to Geneva next week for talks with the Western foreign ministers on the future of his city.

Decision Not Final. So far, the West German government has not announced a final decision on the matter.

Eisler said an election assembly in West Berlin would be regarded by his regime as a "new provocation."

He also warned that his regime might boost road taxes on Western trucks traffic into West Berlin if the Allies do not eliminate their alleged espionage centers in West Berlin. Present East German road taxes total about $50 for a trip to and from West Berlin by a West German truck.

NEW ORLEANS CONTRACTOR AND WIFE KILLED IN HOME

NEW ORLEANS, June 6 (UPI)—Police were without clues today in the killing of a military contractor and his wife.

The bodies of Joseph DeVillenty, 50 years old, and his wife, Laura, 45, were found yesterday in their apartment. DeVillenty, half owner and executive vice president of United Enterprises, Inc., was shot in the back of the head. His wife had been beaten and her throat had been cut.

Police said they knew of no motive and found no weapon. However, they found a portion of what appeared to be a black-jack and a clip from a .22-caliber automatic weapon. The screen of a back door of their apartment was cut and blood-stained, and the DeVillenty's fox terrier was missing.

KISHI WILL VISIT THE U.S.

© New York Times News Service TOKYO, June 6—Prime Minister Kishi, strengthened by a series of decisive election victories for his party, will leave July 11 for London in an 11-nation tour that will end in a brief unofficial visit to Los Angeles.

The cabinet approved Kishi's trip yesterday. He will visit West Germany, Austria, Italy, France, Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Peru and Mexico before stopping in Los Angeles Aug. 7 to 10. He plans no other stops in the United States.

Adenauer

he considers himself the indispensable man at this turn of history.

Leaders of the opposition parties planned to confer Monday with Heinrich Krone, Adenauer's floor leader in Parliament, possibly with a view to bringing a no-confidence measure before the chamber in an effort to oust Adenauer as chancellor.

Erich Ollenhauer, chairman of West Germany's Socialist party, accused Adenauer of contempt for democratic institutions and of seeking to create a West German personality cult.

Members of Adenauer's party were dismayed by the reaction to his decision. Many said they thought the situation demands a public explanation by the chancellor.

By United Press International. Adenauer announced his decision to a caucus of Christian Democratic members of Parliament, and an official announcement said it was approved unanimously.

Tow top Christian Democrats—the party's deputy chairman, Eugen Gerstenmaier, and Heinrich Krone, leader of its majority in Parliament—promptly challenged the announcement.

Gerstenmaier said he had opposed the Chancellor's decision, and Krone, without revealing his own stand, said "there is little sense in trying to claim unanimity where there is none."

Informed quarters in Geneva reported soon after Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano returned there last night that Adenauer's decision probably will force postponement of the presidential election.

Strauss

of Kansas, ranking Republican member of the Commerce Committee, told the Senate that most of the hullabaloo over the nomination "boils down to the simple fact that Adm. Strauss is a conservative."

"He is being regarded as personifying a philosophy of government which some feel impelled to combat and destroy," Schoepel said.

Magnuson, defending the committee's long hearings, said Strauss had been the subject of controversy in his previous role as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Magnuson added: "I am sure the President and the Administration didn't expect this nomination to be handled in the usual course."

Senator Strom Thurmond (Dem.), South Carolina, spoke up for Strauss. He said if Strauss is rejected, "the Communists will undoubtedly, albeit falsely, claim credit for having purged another strong advocate of security from the government."

Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon, an outspoken critic of Strauss, said the nominee "is totally insensitive to the problem of conflict of interest in Government matters" and is devoted to "big business and big private utilities."

A.D.A. Speaker. Morse's remarks were in a speech prepared for an American for Democratic Action meeting at Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, N.Y.

In the committee hearings on the nomination, Morse said, Strauss filled the record "with instances of his arrogance and his insults to Senators who were seeking to bring out the truth about his views and actions."

Morse said the "Commerce Department print shop is reproducing 300 pages of editorials backing Strauss." He called this "questionable taste, at least."

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch. Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic majority leader, was as chary in estimating the length of the debate as he has been in taking any public position.

Taking note of evidence that at least two false pro-Strauss telegrams had been sent to Senator George A. Smathers (Dem.), Florida, under the names of persons who actually oppose the nomination, Johnson predicted that the Senate would "very much resent having pressures applied before members have a chance to read the record."

"And I mean pressure from either side—any side," Johnson added.

ISRAEL'S SUEZ TEST IMPERILS U.S., U.A.R. TIES

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

CAIRO, June 6—Israel's decision to make the Danish freighter Inge Toft a test case in shipping goods through the Suez Canal on neutral flag ships is threatening to dissolve in one stroke the carefully-nurtured and improving relations between the United States and the United Arab Republic.

This opinion was voiced by Western diplomats here yesterday.

The Danish ship, which has been held at Port Said for 15 days and its cargo ordered confiscated as a war prize, is under charter to an American company, the Mediterranean Supply Agency of New York.

American diplomats here have begun sounding out U.A.R. officials on the question of the cargo which the U.A.R. contends is an indirect contribution to Israel's military potential and seizable since the U.A.R. and Israel still are technically at war.

In the absence on vacation of United States Ambassador Raymond A. Hare, this preliminary work is being handled by acting chief of mission Norbert Anschutz and political officer Claude Ross.

Sources here say the United States has not yet made any official demarche to the U.A.R. government. But since a United States firm is involved, the Embassy is duty bound to try and protect its property so long as the legality of the U.A.R.'s position on barring Israeli cargoes is not settled.

The Suez Canal is an international waterway but the Constantinople Convention of 1888, which governs it, provides that Egypt may take steps to bar shipping which endangers Egypt's security.

President Nasser's position has been stated: No Israeli cargoes will transit the canal. Obstructors here think it would be too great a loss of face for him to bow to any external pressure to change his decision.

STATE G.O.P. BEATS DRUMS TO BOOST PARTY INTEREST

An effort to increase rank-and-file participation in affairs of the Republican party will be made by trustees of the "25 Club" who are scheduled to hold an organizational meeting today at Jefferson City.

Twenty-five Republicans from various sections of the state will belong to the first "25 Club" and they will seek to organize similar clubs. Each member will be asked to contribute $1 to the party's campaign chest.

"Our chief aim is not to raise a lot of money," Mrs. Joseph Schramm, a St. Louis trustee said. "We hope to get more people interested in the Republican party. What we do will supplement efforts of the regular party organization."

The state-wide "25 Club" is fashioned after a "25 Club" organized by State Representative Martin Degenhardt (Rep.) and his brother, Gilbert Degenhardt of Yount, Mo., in Perry county. Each trustee is supposed to enlist nine other Republicans.

PARATROOPER KILLED WHEN TWO 'CHUTES FAIL TO OPEN

FORT BRAGG, N. C., June 6 (UPI)—Sgt. Franklin M. DeFazio of Louisville, Ky., was killed when both of his parachutes failed to open yesterday in a mass paratroop drop.

A spokesman for the Eighty-second Airborne Division said at least 27 other paratroopers were injured in the drop of 4700 men ending exercise Dark Cloud-Pine Cone II.

DeFazio was in the second group to jump. Some 2200 men from the Eighty-second Airborne Division were dropped in early morning and the remaining 2500 began jumping shortly before noon.

WEST UNAFRAID OF RED THREATS NORSTAD SAYS

General Addresses NATO Congress, Answers Khrushchev's Statements.

LONDON, June 6 (UPI)—Gen. Lauris Norstad served notice on Soviet Premier Khrushchev today that the West would not be frightened by his rocket-rattling threats.

However, it did not clear up the mystery of why the plane went down or what happened to its crew.

The bomber, which had a crew of nine, was found in the waterless waste of Libya, 380 miles south of Benghazi. The Pentagon identified the plane from its serial numbers. It released last night the names of the crewmen and their next of kin.

The Defense Department said the Liberator had taken off from Soluch, Libya, on April 4, 1943, on a bombing mission to Naples. The statement said: "The course of flight was not indicated nor if it actually reached the target."

The department said a two-man team from the Army Mortuary Service at Frankfurt, Germany, departed on May 11 to investigate the plane. It has flown over the area, and soon will do a ground investigation.

Dispatches from Wiesbaden, Germany, headquarters of the United States Air Forces in Europe, told of discovery of the bomber. The plane was found by a geologist about 138 miles north-northeast of Kufra oasis.

The pilot, Lt. William J. Hatton of New York City, has been listed as missing for 16 years. The crew included Second Lt. D. P. Hays, of Lee's Summit, Mo., and Staff Sgt. Samuel R. Adams, of Eureka, Ill.

In spite of the passage of time, relatives of all nine crewmen were reached last night. They said they had been notified by the War Department in 1943 that the crewmen were missing. A year later they were told they had been killed.

The bomber lies in the desert sand, preserved almost perfectly in the hot, arid air. Although its fuselage was snapped in two at the tail, the plane appears undamaged otherwise. Its radio still is in working order.

Lt. Hays Was On First Mission, Sister Says. INDEPENDENCE, Mo., June 6 (UPI)—Lt. D. P. Hays, a crew member on the B-24 Liberator found recently in Libya, was on his first mission when the plane went down, his sister said today.

Mrs. George Barrett of Independence, Mo., said her brother had written her a letter April 3, 1943, the day before the ill-fated raid from an African base to Naples.

"They were supposed to be 'acclimated' before they made any raids," she said, "but he apparently thought that by getting started early, he could get in his required number of missions and return to the United States."

She said he spoke in the letter of being home some time around Christmas.

Mrs. Barrett said that shortly after her brother was reported missing in action, she wrote the captain who had been assigned as censor on some of the letters Hays sent.

She said the captain wrote back that one of the planes on the mission lost radio contact over the Mediterranean. The captain added that it was the only plane missing out of 44 on the raid.

DALAI LAMA TELLS OF 'ATROCITIES' AGAINST TIBETANS

NEW DELHI, June 6 (AP)—The Dalai Lama said today the Chinese Communists are subjecting the Tibetans "to unbearable tortures day and night" to stamp out resistance in the Himalayan kingdom.

The refugee god-king of Tibet, who fled his capital city of Lhasa in mid-March for asylum in Mussoorie, India, said he learns every day of "fresh atrocities" against his subjects.

In an apparent reference to India's delicate relations with Red China, arising from the Tibetan revolt, the Dalai Lama said he hoped "countries like India will support those on whose side lies the truth and not those who may be in possession of mere might."

The British-owned newspaper Statesman quoted the 23-year-old fugitive ruler as saying in an interview that sometime later this month he will announce "details of what I think and plan."

When the Dalai Lama fled, the Communists installed the Panchen Lama, his political rival, as ruler. The Reds repeatedly have invited the Dalai Lama to return home.

Plane Found in Libyan Desert Was on 1943 Bombing Mission

U.S. Air Force Announcement Fails to Clear Up Mystery of What Happened to Crew.

WASHINGTON, June 6 (UPI)—The Defense Department announced yesterday that the B-24 Liberator bomber recently discovered in the Libyan desert had taken off from an African base 16 years ago on a bombing mission to Naples, and never returned.

However, it did not clear up the mystery of why the plane went down or what happened to its crew.

REBEL FORCE DOOMED, SAYS GEN. SOMOZA

'Just Matter of Time' Until Invaders Are Finished, Nicaraguan Leader Asserts.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, June 6 (UPI)—Gen. Anastasio Somoza said last night government troops had "pinpointed" a rebel invasion force which landed in Nicaragua this week and that it was "just a matter of time" before the insurgents were finished.

Somoza, commander-in-chief of the Nicaraguan armed forces and brother of President Luis Somoza, conceded that the rebels were well hidden, both in the Santo Tomas and the Olama areas where they made separate airborne landings Sunday and Monday.

He said two rebels captured yesterday in the plains of Olama disclosed that their confederates had only three days' supply of food and little ammunition. In addition, Somoza said, the rebels' movements were being hampered by tropical rains.

Somoza said the rebels were getting no co-operation from the few inhabitants of the areas in which they landed. He said that some Nicaraguan residents—possibly 25 to 30—may have joined the invaders.

The general said the prisoners taken yesterday disclosed that Cubans were in their invasion force, as well as a Dominican and a Costa Rican. They said the Costa Rican was killed in a skirmish with government forces.

(In Havana, Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro brushed off allegations of Cuban participation in the Nicaraguan revolt. At the same time, however, he intimated moral support of the rebels and predicted the "imminent" fall of President Somoza.)

According to Gen. Somoza, the latest combat information showed three national guardsmen and two rebels killed. In addition, two Nicaraguan air force pilots were killed accidentally when they crashed while on patrol.

The general promised that his government would co-operate with the Organization of American States in its recommendations concerning the revolt but would not stop its troops from pursuing the rebels.

In Washington, the O.A.S. deferred an immediate on-the-spot investigation. A four-nation O.A.S. investigating committee was to remain in Washington to receive further information on the developments in Nicaragua from neighboring states.

WASHINGTON, June 6—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, potential rivals for the Republican presidential nomination, will be together on a formal occasion in New York next Thursday. Traveling by jet plane, Mr. Nixon that day will become the first top-echelon American official to appear before Atlantic and Pacific Coast audiences on the same day.

His morning appearance in New York will be as President Eisenhower's representative in ceremonies opening the week-long celebration marking the 350th anniversary of the discovery of the Hudson river.

From New York the Vice President will fly to San Francisco to address that city's Commonwealth Club in the afternoon.

At the morning ceremony in New York the Vice President, Gov. Rockefeller, Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyer of New Jersey and Mayor Robert F. Wagner will review the Atlantic Fleet from a helicopter.

MAYOR NAMES COMMITTEE TO PUSH RISE IN EARNINGS TAX

Proposal to Increase Ceiling on Levy Will Be Submitted to Voters at Special July 14 Election.

Appointment of a citizens committee to campaign for a proposed charter amendment which would permit an increase in the earnings tax rate was announced yesterday by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker.

The proposed amendment, which will be submitted to the voters at a special election July 14, would raise the ceiling on the tax from one-half of one percent to one percent.

If enacted, the levy would have to be increased by ordinance enacted by the Board of Aldermen. A 60 per cent majority of votes cast is required for enactment of the proposed amendment.

General co-chairmen of the committee are: Harry Harrington, president of Boatmen's National Bank; Donald Gunn, former president of the Board of Aldermen; David M. Grant, legislative research director for the aldermen; and James E. Crowe, former city counselor.

Divisional chairmen are: Mrs. Catherine Harrington, women's division; Andrew H. Brown, neighborhood groups; Howard Ohlendorf, small business; John J. Dwyer, political committees; William Holland, speakers' committee; Walter Hagen, employer-employee committee; Robert Hillard, professional committee; Walter H. Heiner and Percy (Bud) Greer, civic and service clubs.

If authority is granted and an increased earnings tax is levied, four stopgap tax measures would be automatically repealed. These provide for a 7-cent increase in the levy against each $100 of assessed valuation on real estate and tangible personal property; an increase of one-half cent a gallon on gasoline; an increase of 75 cents against each $1000 in gross sales of merchants and manufacturers; and an $8 annual charge against each household for rubbish collection.

SEVEN INDICTED IN PLOT TO ARM DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

MIAMI, June 6 (UPI)—Seven men, including the Dominican Republic's consul general in Miami, have been indicted in connection with a plot to smuggle guns from the United States to the Dominican Republic.

A grand jury charged the men yesterday with trying to bribe United States customs agents to let the arms pass through Miami. The alleged scheme came to light May 22 with the arrest of 11 persons loading guns and ammunition aboard a four-engine transport plane.

Those indicted included Dominican Consul Augusto Ferrando; former Miami policeman Joseph Liguori; Leonard Trento, a Newark, N. J., and Miami businessman; Cleveland airplane broker Dominic E. Bartone, and Samuel E. Poole Jr., of Tampa, a pilot.

Shepley Tells St. Louis U. Class Of Threats to Higher Education

St. Louis University graduates marching along west side of St. Louis Cathedral at baccalaureate ceremonies yesterday.

Washington U. Head Says Sources of Financial Aid Constitute One Danger.

The quality of higher education in the United States is seriously threatened by the sources of financial support and by the universities' own failure to recognize their increasingly powerful role in society, Chancellor Ethan A. H. Shepley of Washington University told the St. Louis University graduating class today.

He spoke at St. Louis University's 141st commencement at Kiel Auditorium. Degrees were conferred on 921 graduates, including 120 candidates for master of arts degrees and 38 for doctor of philosophy degrees.

Heavy financial contributions by business and government, directed particularly to scientific and technological programs, are one threat to the universities in their effort to maintain well-balanced programs, Chancellor Shepley said.

"Science and technology certainly need our support, but in such a situation we must not lose sight of the vital importance of the humanities and social sciences," he asserted. "The danger is not in what we neglect, but in what we neglect."

"A thoughtful newspaper man here in St. Louis recently expressed his concern about the future of private higher education. Universities, this man said, are exposing themselves to control by those who control the greatest sums of money."

"In his mind this meant that private universities were in danger of selling their birthright to the great corporations that are contributing to higher education in rapidly growing amounts."

"This man was not expressing concern that private universities were going to bargain away their integrity, in a sort of bribery that would involve an exchange of support between the institutions of higher education and big business. His fear was that support would become more and more directed toward certain goals that would be acceptable to business, but not necessarily conducive to the growth of free thought and the search for truth."

"This is one of the threats to the freedom of universities that can be read into the facts of the support of modern American higher education. It is not a very serious threat, as I see it, but it is one which must be considered carefully and re-examined frequently."

Funds for Research. Discussing the threat of government interference, Shepley said there probably was not a university in the country which is not receiving government funds.

"In the physical, biological and health sciences, this support has reached a level where higher education would appear to be committed to its continuation," he continued.

"Any sudden shifts in government policy would support of research would disrupt the financing of education and bankrupt countless programs which the universities could never carry on alone."

"A threat? Of course it is, and it is one that presents real problems. Public opinion in its influence on the Congress controls the general emphasis of government support—it is for this reason that financial support has been so prominent in the health and natural sciences and practically non-existent in the humanities and social sciences."

Shepley said his comments were "perhaps strange words to speak at a university commencement."

"Medicine Uncoated." "It is probably impolite to remind graduating students of the weaknesses of the educational process through which they have just labored," he said. "But I believe you are mature enough and intelligent enough to take your medicine uncoated."

CHANCELLOR ETHAN A. H. SHEPLEY of Washington University.

"It is only because I am so strongly convinced of the strength and vitality of our universities and of our society in general that I have chosen these words. An educational process that produces free minds should not blink at failure or ignore the existence of error."

Perhaps the most real threat to universities today, he said, is "the threat to themselves through ignorance of their own power and influence. We are rapidly approaching the day when the most powerful institution in society is the institution of learning, acting through millions of students and alumni, funneling into industry and government ideas and ideals that are university born and bred."

"We are appalling ignorant of the implications of our own acts as universities. We are committed to the pursuit of truth, but we are unmindful of the consequences of that pursuit. Seeking new knowledge always involves a calculated risk, but it is a risk worth taking. The danger here lies in making a great effort to discover new knowledge, without at the same time trying to find out how society will have to adjust to accommodate what we learn."

"Universities are much like other institutions of modern society. They are big, clumsy, self-centered. They are victims of the same weaknesses and faults as are big labor unions or big business—they move too hastily in one crisis or stand frozen in another. We have only to see how universities have responded to the threat of Russian science to realize how panicky they can be in a difficult situation. In the past two years we have accelerated our scientific programs at a rate beyond our understanding. This acceleration is dangerous if none of us are going to be concerned with finding out where it is all likely to lead."

"The threats that are posed by the sources of our support are not as dangerous as those posed by our own ignorance of the effect of our own efforts. We do not plan or reflect enough on the implications of our efforts to advance the cause of higher education."

Threat in Conformity. Another threat to higher education is the idea of conformity, Shepley said.

"The search for truth and the defense of the free mind are not compatible with a rigid conformity," he went on. "We owe our breakthroughs in science and art to the kind of investigation that is not frightened by traditional barriers. When the university professor fights against the idea of conformity he is joining battle with a dangerous enemy."

"This is why conformity is such a dangerous notion, and why universities, which are conservative institutions by nature, must be receptive to unconventional men and ideas. The university that is too timid to find a place for controversy is not much of a university. Because of the tradition of freedom within universities, we sometimes find ourselves listening to some pretty strange, and even silly talk, most of it from people who feel it is their obligation to society to speak their minds whether their minds are filled with thoughts or merely words."

"When universities become so sensitive they can no longer tolerate the nonconformist, they will have paid a rather high price for the peace and quiet they have gained."

Other threats to higher education, Shepley added, are a too high pricing of prosperity and security, "when teachers speak only of salaries or tenure, or when students can concentrate only in air-conditioned classrooms," and political apathy, which tends to prevail in a large university "as the exchange of ideas becomes more difficult."

Cathedral Baccalaureate.

The Very Rev. Paul C. Reinert S.J., president of St. Louis University, in his salutation to the graduates, described briefly the university's program of physical expansion into the Mill Creek area, which he said was planned for completion before the university's 150th anniversary celebration in 1968.

He warned the graduates against thinking of the program "in terms of land and steel and bricks, instead of in terms of human beings."

The real objective of the university's $18,000,000 fund campaign for capital and operational needs, he asserted, "is to guarantee the future of America by providing the best possible education for our young people."

"The finest inheritance society can leave to young men and women is the opportunity to bring their minds in contact with all that is best and ennobling in our Judeo-Christian culture," he said.

"Making this heritage available is getting more difficult every year because of the explosion in population and the explosion in human knowledge, which have given us so many more to teach and so much more to learn."

SUFFERS HEAD INJURY IN PARKING ALTERCATION

William York suffered a serious head injury in an altercation over parking his automobile in front of his home, 2242 Warren street, last night.

Mrs. Juanita York, who was waiting on the front steps, said her husband asked the driver of an automobile that was stopped in front of their house to move so he could park. The man got out, knocked York down, then drove away, Mrs. York reported. York is in City Hospital.

The move to the cathedral was made to provide additional space for families of graduates. The cathedral can accommodate 1900 persons in its pews, with standing room for about 1000 more in a gallery.

A reception for graduates, parents and friends was held at Rosati-Kain High School gymnasium, across the street from the cathedral, following the baccalaureate service.

EAST ST. LOUISAN CHARGED IN DEATH OF MAN IN FIGHT

Ira Jones, 121 (rear) Exchange avenue, East St. Louis, was charged with murder in a warrant issued yesterday by Justice of the Peace Barney Johnston at East St. Louis.

The charge is in connection with the death of William Thomas, whose body was found last Saturday stuffed into a catch basin in the rear of the 700 block of North First street, East St. Louis. Police have been unable to determine Thomas's age or address.

Jones, 21, a laborer, has signed a statement admitting the killing, police said. Jones told police he and Thomas got into a fight. Thomas was beaten into unconsciousness and then stuffed into the basin, which was filled with water, Jones was quoted as saying. Jones is in the East St. Louis City Jail. He is a Negro.

AUTO ACCIDENTS TAKE LIVES OF 4 IN THIS AREA

Two Women Killed in Crash Near Scott Air Base — Fatality on Boone Route.

Four persons were killed in traffic accidents in the St. Louis area last night and early today. The dead were:

Mrs. Richard P. Shepard, 26 years old, 605C Grover street, St. Clair county, Ill.; Miss Margaret A. Massie, 19, 605A Grover;

John Robert O'Brien, 20, 1600 Bellevue avenue, Richmond Heights;

Joseph Lee Brewer, 51, 6001A Suburban avenue.

Mrs. Shepard, the wife of a staff sergeant, stationed at Scott Air Base, and Miss Massie were killed last night in a head-on collision on Wherry road, one mile north of the air base.

An automobile in which they were riding collided with one driven by First Lt. Everett H. Eide, 27, who is stationed at the base. Both women were dead on arrival at the hospital. Eide suffered serious head injuries.

Mrs. Shepard was taking Miss Massie, the daughter of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Clay D. Massie, to the base hospital for treatment of an ear ailment when the accident occurred near a curve, Illinois State Police reported.

Mrs. Shepard was driving west and Eide east.

Police were unable to determine immediately the cause of the collision. The young women's homes are in the Wherry housing project, which is operated for the families of Scott personnel.

O'Brien, a printer, was killed early today when the automobile he was driving struck a tree on the Daniel Boone Expressway, about one and one half miles west of Lindbergh boulevard, St. Louis county.

The State Highway Patrol reported O'Brien was westbound in the Expressway and apparently fell asleep. The car left the highway and struck a tree in the parkway which divides the eastbound and westbound lanes.

The impact uprooted the tree, which is 10 inches in diameter, the Highway Patrol reported. O'Brien was dead on arrival at St. Louis County Hospital.

Brewer was killed last night in accident involving three machines at the intersection of U.S. Highway 50 and Illinois Route 159, five miles north of Belleville.

Brewer's car was going east on Highway 50 when it was struck by one going south on Route 159 and driven by Mrs. Maxine G. Gashgarian, 20 High Forest drive, Belleville. Their cars then skidded into a pick-up truck operated by Dale W. Burroughs, 841 Merrell avenue, Collinsville.

Burroughs, who was not injured, told State Police that Mrs. Gashgarian drove into the intersection against a red traffic light. He was stopped for the light when the two cars crashed into his truck, he said.

Brewer, a maintenance man, was dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital in Belleville. Mrs. Gashgarian was taken to Memorial Hospital, but her injuries were not determined immediately.

The children have been placed in a Welfare Department home. Mrs. Backman's trial is set for June 12. The two dogs are in the city pound.

SUIT TO BE FILED FOR BARRACKS HOUSING VOTE

County Election Board Fails to Approve Referendum on Disputed Project.

A mandamus suit will be filed to compel the St. Louis County Election Board to hold a referendum on the controversial Jefferson Barracks housing project, Frank Bild, attorney, said today.

His announcement came after the Election Board failed yesterday to approve a motion to hold the referendum. The vote was 2 to 2. George F. Hege and Oscar Habenicht, Republicans, voted for the motion; Board Chairman Joe Oxenhandler and Mrs. Dorothy Dennis, Democrats, against it.

The referendum which is sought would apply to an ordinance passed by the County Council April 1. The ordinance authorized a co-operative agreement between the County Housing Authority and the county for proceeding with the Jefferson Barracks housing project.

Such an agreement was demanded by federal housing authorities as a condition to further grants for the project. They have cut off aid pending a settlement of the controversy.

Bild represents county residents who oppose the project and have filed petitions seeking a referendum on the ordinance. If approved, the proposal would be submitted to county voters in the August 1960 election.

The motion to put the co-operation agreement ordinance on the ballot was made by Hege. Oxenhandler seconded the motion but then voted against it.

Explaining his vote, he said he felt a mandamus suit would be the quickest way of getting a judicial determination of the controversial issue.

No matter which way the board voted, a suit was likely to result, Oxenhandler stated, adding that he was not taking sides in the matter.

John J. McAttee, attorney for the County Housing Authority, has contended that the ordinance was an administrative and ministerial act by the county council and not subject to referendum.

KEPT 10 CHILDREN AND TWO DOGS IN TWO ROOMS

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 6 (AP)—"The police might think we were crowded, but we weren't," said Mrs. Barbara Jean Backman, 18 years old.

She had just pleaded not guilty in municipal court yesterday to a charge of endangering the lives of 10 children by keeping them, together with two dogs, in a two-room apartment.

Her husband, Edward 21, a sailor, shared the apartment, also, when not on duty. He and his wife are parents of one of the children, a girl, 2 months old.

The others had been taken in to board and room by Mrs. Backman to supplement her husband's Navy pay.

"We really didn't make any money," she said, "but the kids were so sweet. You just can't turn them out. And we love them."

The children have been placed in a Welfare Department home. Mrs. Backman's trial is set for June 12. The two dogs are in the city pound.

MISSING ST. LOUIS YOUTH IS FOUND SLEEPING IN FIELD

Special to the Post-Dispatch. FREDERICKTOWN, Mo., June 6—Eighteen-year-old Ralph R. Walton Jr. of St. Louis, who had been missing since Wednesday, was found sleeping in a field last night near Mine LaMotte, Mo.

He was discovered by Ted Matthews, a farmer. The youth waded into a large lake when he saw Matthews, but was apprehended a few minutes later by Trooper R. C. Caldwell of the Highway Patrol.

Walton had a portable radio with him and told Caldwell he had listened to reports of the 52-hour search that had been conducted for him. He had been attempting to find his way back to a clubhouse near Clearwater, Mo., from which he disappeared, the youth said. Clearwater is about 30 miles from here.

Walton was released to his mother, who took him to the State Hospital at Farmington for observation. His father is a St. Louis policeman. The family lives at 3842 Rhodes avenue.

ONE STRAWBERRY TO GET THE FULL ATOMIC WORKS

DAVIS, Calif., June 6 (AP)—A California strawberry will be yanked off the vine, bombarded with several billion high-speed electrons from an atom smasher, dumped into a container and shaken in a tumbler that will simulate a cross-country freight-car trip to New York. Then it will be shut up in a cooler for a week.

If it comes out fresh, good-looking and tasty, the same treatment will be given a lot of other strawberries. If they still look nice, more will follow.

If everything works thereafter, New York will get four California strawberries for every three it has been getting because, says University of California pomologist Edward C. Maxie, shipping usually means a 25 per cent spoilage loss. The Army is interested, too—if the idea works.

GIVES BIRTH TO TWINS, BUT IN DIFFERENT PLACES

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 6 (AP)—Mrs. Paul Klimovich gave birth to twin girls yesterday in different places.

The first girl, weighing four pounds, 12 ounces, was born at the Klimovich home in nearby Greentield. The second, weighing seven pounds, arrived at Mercy Hospital after policemen sped Mrs. Klimovich there in an ambulance.

"It happened too fast," 37-year-old Klimovich said later. "I was going to drive my wife to the hospital but the baby came before I could find someone to take care of Marie, who will be 6 Tuesday, and David, who is 3."

"Our educational system is traditionally based on the ability to have an experience and translate it into words," Curtis said. "I do not want to minimize this ability, but I am afraid the concentration has been on it and we have lost sight of the fact that it is the experience itself that is important."

Two persons said they saw Lt. Malcolm B. Wallace, 26 years old, bail out after the tail of the craft collapsed yesterday. Because he was too low, Wallace's parachute did not open, military authorities said.

Military authorities refused to give details concerning the crash and the scene was sealed off.

INFLATABLE PLANE'S TAIL COLLAPSES, PILOT KILLED

AKRON, O., June 6 (AP)—Part of an inflatable airplane apparently collapsed, and the Army lieutenant who was learning to fly it plunged several hundred feet to his death.

Two persons said they saw Lt. Malcolm B. Wallace, 26 years old, bail out after the tail of the craft collapsed yesterday. Because he was too low, Wallace's parachute did not open, military authorities said.

Military authorities refused to give details concerning the crash and the scene was sealed off.

YOUTHS SEIZE MAN ON STAIRS AND STEAL $35

Pruitt Homes Resident Attacked When Walking Up Steps to His Apartment.

Sherman Powell, a resident of Pruitt Homes, 2431 Dickson street, was seized by a group of about 10 youths on a stairway of the housing project and robbed of $35 last night, he told police.

Powell said he started to walk to his fifth-floor apartment after the elevator failed to operate. The youths, who were in the lobby, followed him up the stairs a short distance, then stole his wallet and fled.

Two passengers on a Hodi-mont streetcar drew knives and held up Ezra Harbison, the operator, when the car stopped at Kennerly avenue and the Hodi-mont tracks last night. The men stole about $100 and Harbison's money changer, then jumped off the car and fled on foot.

Richard Wells, attendant at the Roosevelt Hotel parking lot, 727 North Euclid avenue, was robbed of $54 last night by a man who asked change for a quarter, then drew a revolver. The robber fled on foot, Wells told police.

Vernon Roberts, 3716 Blair avenue, reported he was robbed of $49 last midnight by two chance acquaintances who took him into the hallway of a building at 2800 Howard street and beat him. Police later arrested a suspect, who denied knowledge of the holdup.

Arthur Schubert, 919 Geyer avenue, was robbed of $3 early today, he told police, by a man who offered him a ride in an automobile in the 3100 block of Chouteau avenue. Schubert said the man threatened him with a knife, stole the money and put him out of the car.

A wristwatch and other articles valued at a total of $320 were missing after Fred Moses, 3135 Louisiana avenue, awakened early today and saw a man run out a back door of the house, he reported.

60 STUDENTS GRADUATED AT JOHN BURROUGHS SCHOOL

Sixty students at John Burroughs School received diplomas last night at graduation exercises in the school amphitheater, 755 South Price road, Ladue. United States Representative Thomas B. Curtis (Rep.), Webster Groves, gave the address. He told the group not to forget that experience is itself an important part of learning.

"Our educational system is traditionally based on the ability to have an experience and translate it into words," Curtis said. "I do not want to minimize this ability, but I am afraid the concentration has been on it and we have lost sight of the fact that it is the experience itself that is important."

Two persons said they saw Lt. Malcolm B. Wallace, 26 years old, bail out after the tail of the craft collapsed yesterday. Because he was too low, Wallace's parachute did not open, military authorities said.

Letters from the People

Views of Assembly

The Seventieth General Assembly of Missouri has followed the familiar pattern of its unhappy predecessors, adjourning in a wester of last minute bill-passing, by-passing, buck-passing confusion, so marked that leaders of both parties have deplored its record. In contrast, once again the arguments for a smaller, representative one-house legislature shine brightly against the dismal background of our present bicameral system.

A one-house legislature, with fairer citizen representation, fewer committees, a clear line of action from introduction of a bill to final passage, annual sessions, and no conference committee to amend or revise the thinking of the majority—all these advantages, in addition to more adequate salary provisions (at less cost, since there are fewer members), would give our legislators a sound, efficient structure from which to conduct the state's affairs.

Petitions for a constitutional amendment could be circulated in order to place the proposal for a one-house legislature on the ballot in November of 1960. Let's begin the clean house (and Senate) in Missouri and work for a unified, efficient legislative framework that will give dignity and importance to the office of state representative.

Unicameral

Your accusation that the Seventieth General Assembly of the State of Missouri in its five-month session passed very little progressive legislation for the people is not true. There were two very important bills passed by the House and the Senate. They are: House Bill 288, which makes the Human Relations Commission of Missouri a permanent agency, and House Bill 126 and Senate Bill 123, an F.E.P.C. bill for state employment. This can hardly be called nothing to a lot of people.

Ruth M. Wheeler

I have just written letters to my state Senator and Representative expressing my dissatisfaction with the recently terminated "do-nothing" Missouri Legislature. If the voters don't let these men know that the electorate is unhappy about this poor record the next Legislature will be just as bad, if not worse. Now is the time to stop a waste of taxpayers money and the steady decline of Missouri. If you don't know the name of your Representative and Senator, call the Board of Election Commissioners and find out. And then let him know how you feel. Don't take it—if you do these men will never change.

Very Disgusted

Earnings Tax Unfair

Somewhere the writer recalls having read that elementary principles of taxation demand that the taxpayer receive benefits in proportion to the taxes he pays, and that these taxes should have some voice in the final determination of the tax. According to your recent observations, such thinking is old-fashioned.

Proceeding under these premises, will you please explain how you would propose that Missouri collect taxes under the withholding plan from those Missouri residents working outside the State of Missouri, and how the City of St. Louis can collect its earnings tax from St. Louisans employed outside the city. In both instances, these wage-earners receive benefits at least equal to those supposedly enjoyed by non-residents working in Missouri and in St. Louis, the very same non-residents you so zealously desire to tax.

Business concerns in the fringe areas of Missouri could not be going concerns without the vast labor pool supplied by these non-residents. These business firms pay all applicable taxes; the non-resident workers, whose skill is utilized, pay bridge tolls, Missouri sales taxes, parking meter tolls and many, many other taxes on items purchased in Missouri.

Since you are dead-set on compelling these so-called aliens to pay these unfair taxes, does it logically follow that you are in favor of their eligibility to hold state and city jobs?

World affairs of necessity consume a great deal of our time and tax monies; the writer feels the same energy and zeal should be applied to getting us out of the present tax mess. There must be ways and means. I'm confident, for Missouri and St. Louis to solve their tax problems in their own houses, without resorting to burglary of guests.

Wood River, Ill. Cal Bone?

Horse-and-Buggy Stuff

For an outstanding act of constructive statesmanship all the country is indebted to Connecticut's Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff and the Legislature at Hartford. Under Gov. Ribicoff's determined leadership the Connecticut legislators have voted to abolish the county as an "outworn, outmoded and wasteful" unit of government.

Counties in Connecticut, as in other New England states, long have performed fewer functions than those in some parts of the country. Town and state between them have shared most of the policing, highway, school and court duties which the typical Middle Western county fulfills. But if abolishing counties in New England is not the revolution it would be elsewhere, still the liquidation of vestigial governmental forms in any circumstances remains a triumph.

In taking this trail-blazing step, Connecticut roots out a system that goes back to colonial times, much farther than the 171 years that Connecticut has been a member of the Union. It was not easy. But Gov. Ribicoff made abolition of counties a major element of his program last January. Now, after unceasing work, he has reached a goal that many faint-hearted politicians said could not be won.

The counterparts of these politicians in Missouri, Illinois and elsewhere will say that the task of abolishing eight counties in Connecticut was much less difficult than undertaking to eliminate or even to work out combinations of counties in states with more counties.

Connecticut is about one-fourteenth the size of Missouri and it may be argued that it would be asking too much for a large, chiefly rural state, to follow the example of one that is small and urbanized. The answer lies in consolidation. Missouri can and should merge counties which are naturally grouped together in areas of common interest. Major economies can be achieved through consolidation, too.

Governors and legislators have been grossly negligent in not grasping this ready opportunity to save large sums in the conduct of local government. Here are the states with more than 90 counties:

1. Texas	254
2. Georgia	159
3. Kentucky	120
4. MISSOURI	114
5. Kansas	105
6. ILLINOIS	102
7. North Carolina	100
8. Iowa	99
9. Virginia	98
10. Tennessee	95
11. Nebraska	93
12. Indiana	92

Every one of these counties is a ravenous eater of taxes. Every one maintains a set of salaried officials established in a courthouse staffed with clerks, bookkeepers, stenographers, custodians and other employees. A few miles in all directions—north, south, east and west—other sets of officials and employees in other courthouses go through the same tax-consuming motions.

Actually Connecticut is not the first state to do away with counties by distributing their functions to either the state or municipal authorities. Alaska, which is more than twice the size of Texas, came into the Union last year without any counties. Massachusetts has 14 counties but they do not perform as many administrative tasks as do counties generally.

A horse and buggy are almost never seen on modern state highways. Yet every year taxpayers pour many millions of duplicated dollars into horse-and-buggy county government.

Arkansas Inquiry

Brooks Hays was eminently right in urging the House Elections subcommittee to make a thorough investigation of last year's congressional election in Little Rock. Hays, a racial moderate, was defeated by Dr. Dale Alford, a last-minute write-in candidate. Hays did not contest the election and he has a job as director of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

It will be a salutary thing for the subcommittee to bring out and publicize the methods used by Alford's supporters, even if there is no proof of illegality. Certainly there were questionable aspects of the balloting. Many voters were handed Alford stickers to paste on the ballots. And the unsigned photograph circulated by enemies of Hays recalls the famous cropped picture used in the notorious Maryland Senate campaign of 1950 to defeat Millard Tydings by falsely implying intimacy with Earl Browder, former head of the Communist party in America.

Hays takes the position an investigation is imperative to preserve the integrity of elections as part of the Democratic process. The subcommittee would be well-advised to bring out all the facts.

But Where Were the Crews?

An air-age mystery of the Libyan desert may outdo that most famous sea mystery of the days of sail—the case of the Mary Celeste. Both are baffling and the parallels are intriguing.

In 1872 the brigantine, Mary Celeste, was found in mid-Atlantic near the Azores, abandoned but in good condition. Last week an Army Air Force bomber, missing for 16 years, and also in good condition, was found in the trackless wastes 380 miles south of Benghazi. In neither case was there any evidence of the fate of the 15 persons concerned.

A British crew, attracted by the yawning of the two-masted American ship, boarded her and found the lifeboat gone as well as certain articles needed for navigation. The last entry in the ship's log was two weeks old. The cargo, mainly barrels of alcohol, was intact. There was no apparent reason for abandoning ship. The 70 persons who had been aboard were never heard of again.

Out of this, Conan Doyle and other fiction writers have woven stories. It is said more has been written about this ill-fated ship than about any other ship of tragedy including the Titanic. Rumors and hoaxes, including alleged survivors, persisted for years.

It is possible to reason more closely about the B-24 bomber. Oil prospectors found the four-motored Liberator. There were no bodies, no signs of trouble and no messages. The radio still worked. Flight gear and clothing hung in place. Guns and ammunition were in order. Water jugs were full. If the crew had abandoned the B-24 after landing they would have taken the water jugs on any trek through the blazing desert.

It is entirely possible that the plane became lost at night when terrain was not visible, ran out of gasoline and left the crew with no alternative but to parachute. First, the pilot would have trimmed the ship for level flight. After the bail out, the plane might well have gone on for many miles as it descended in a long, slow glide for an easy belly landing in the soft sand.

The Air Force, after checking whatever old records it can find and searching the desert area, may find a solution. If not, here is a mystery of the air that may attract as many fiction writers as did the Mary Celeste.

Worth More Than Dollars

The House version of the foreign aid bill cuts the funds $260,000,000 below President Eisenhower's requests, but it includes a splendid policy statement which may prove more valuable than the extra money. The cuts were made in military aid and "support" grants, while loan funds were actually increased. The policy statement, proposed by Representative Chester Bowles of Connecticut, expresses this country's "abiding interest" in raising living standards abroad and urges:

1. Less emphasis on military aid;
2. Use of the development loan fund only for long-term economic objectives, not for short-term emergencies;
3. Lodging final authority over military aid decisions in the State Department instead of the Pentagon.

These principles have their counterpart in the restrictions Senator Mike Mansfield has proposed in the Senate. He wants a closer scrutiny of military grants, full disclosure of all aid, the abolition of the ICA after four years with the State Department taking full control, more money for development loans and continuation of Point Four.

It is not likely that all of the Mansfield restrictions will be accepted. Many Senators and House members may be more inclined to vote for military aid than for development funds even though the latter promise more in the long run. There must be some military aid for the time being. But it is difficult to see why the funds involved should be concealed even though it may be wise to keep secret the nature and number of weapons supplied to foreign governments.

The House bill recognizes the growing demand for more information on the military aid program by guaranteeing Congress a private look at the "force objectives" of the recipients of defense support.

In both legislative branches, it seems to us, the perennial criticism of the foreign aid program has taken a most constructive turn this year. Wild talk of "giveaways" has given way to serious study of foreign aid aims and achievements. And the House policy statement expressing an abiding national interest in aiding underdeveloped lands may prove a landmark.

If Children Come First...

If the St. Louis School Board wants to make significant budget trims without hurting the quality of education, it ought to accept the recommendation of its Building Commissioner, Harold E. Dessau. He has outlined reductions in force in his patronage-swollen department that, together with savings on materials, would result in economies of some $700,000 a year.

A Board that was sincerely devoted to promoting the interest of the children would quickly adopt Mr. Dessau's recommendations and then order him to see if it were not possible to save still another $500,000. Judging by the report of the independent Chicago business consultants, A. T. Kearney & Co., the Building department would be substantially overstaffed even if the Board accepted every one of Mr. Dessau's present proposals.

Given the prospect of at least $200,000 in additional state aid and the likelihood that with fewer mechanics on the payroll it may be possible to get by with a smaller year-end balance than anticipated, one more sizeable budget cut in the Building department may be sufficient to solve the school system's money crisis. The Board would be well advised to make the try.

A Lab for the Great Plains

A soil and water research laboratory for the Great Plains States, which the Nebraska Legislature has recently memorialized Congress to establish, could easily pay for itself many times over. An impressive array of organizations has recommended it: the Great Plains Agricultural Council, the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts, and the Soil and Water Research Facility Committee appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Benson. Bills to create such an agency are pending in both houses of Congress.

The vast subhumid region which forms a fourth or more of our country has problems in soil and water which differ both in nature and intensity from those of the rest of the United States. Drought, dust storms, and pollution of the soil by unfit irrigation water are only some of the most severe of the problems with which the Plains are beset. The major laboratory which would be established in some strategically central location under the pending bills would be able to carry on research which is beyond the capabilities of existing programs.

Increasing knowledge of its natural resources could make the economy of the Great Plains more stable than in the past and could cushion the shock of trouble which, at best, is bound to come from time to time. A dollar for research will go farther and do more good on the way than a dollar spent on relief to bail out the region in times of recurring distress. A Great Plains water and soil research laboratory would be a sound investment for everybody in the country.

Morse vs. Neuberger

Senator Wayne Morse has announced that he will not support his Democratic colleague, Richard L. Neuberger, if the latter runs for re-election next year.

If Senator Morse's complaint is that his younger colleague—who worked day and night to re-elect Morse in 1956—is not partisan enough, the senior Senator from Oregon is hardly the man to lodge that objection. After all, Senator Morse began his political career as a Republican, served a hitch as an Independent and prior to re-election in 1956 turned Democratic.

There is nothing wrong with independence in politics, but in a personal feud Senator Morse has lost more than Senator Neuberger in the ill will and bad feeling publicly aired by the two men.

"AND WHY, PRAY TELL, DO YOU WANT TO STOP ME?"

Missouri Pioneers in Texas

Moses and Stephen Austin Promoted Settlement There While Mexico Held Area

Herbert F. Rice in
The Kansas City Times

A Connecticut Yankee, Moses Austin, was the first industrialist in what is now Missouri, originally the Upper Louisiana Territory, and the "father of Texas."

His son, Stephen Fuller Austin, achieved no less distinction in bringing into a reality his father's plan to establish an Anglo-American colony in New Spain, or what is now the State of Texas.

Moses Austin was born in Durham, Conn., about 1763 and grew up in a community which was a lead-smelting center during the Revolutionary war. Being of an enterprising nature, young manhood found him established in Philadelphia.

From there he went to Richmond, Va., where he engaged extensively in the lead smelting and manufacturing business, and in other ventures.

Moses Austin very early evinced a great interest in the Upper Louisiana country, west of the Mississippi and then under Spanish rule. In 1796, he set out across the wilderness on horseback with a pack mule and a servant. He encountered much hardship and had been all but reduced to the extremity of eating his horse and mule when he reached the Mississippi late in 1796. He crossed at St. Louis, then a mere fur-trading post.

Wishing to enter the trading post with some ceremony, Austin donned an elegant blue mantle, lined with scarlet and embroidered with lace, mounted his finest horse and paraded along the street where lived the Spanish commandant. Such a spectacle aroused the curiosity of the official gentleman, who invited him to take up residence in the commandant's home. Austin proceeded later to Ste. Genevieve, farther down the river, and thence, with an escort of Spanish soldiers, to other parts of Southeast Missouri, finally establishing himself at Mine a Breton, a lead-mining community which had been established by the Indians and early French.

Austin eventually received a grant of one square league, about 4400 acres, a part of which is now incorporated in the town of Potosi, Washington county. The grant was contingent upon his introducing certain improvements in mining, and that he manufacture some lead products for commercial use.

He established a smelter, a shot tower, a sheetlead plant, a sawmill, a flouring mill and various enterprises. He imported expert miners and their families to his new community and built an elegant home, Durham Hall, for his family which came on a few years after he established his new base.

In 1819, Austin and his son, Stephen, formulated an ambitious plan for the establishment of an American colony in New Spain, on the Brazos river. Stephen had been a member of the Territorial Legislature of Missouri in 1818.

In 1819, Stephen set out for the Rio Grande country, by way of the Arkansas Territory. He opened a farm on Red river, located a claim where Little Rock stands today and was appointed circuit judge of Arkansas.

Meanwhile, Moses Austin set out in 1820 on horseback from Missouri on an 800-mile trip to San Antonio de Bexar, in pursuit of his dream of colonization. At San Antonio, he was ordered by the Spanish governor to leave the country. He was about ready to depart when he ran onto an old friend, Baron de Bastrop, a man of much influence, with whom he had once traveled in the United States.

Bastrop reported to the governor that Austin was a very sick man and unable to undertake a return trip, and also urged favorable attention to Austin's request for colonization. Within a week, Austin was authorized to settle 300 families, subject to approval at Mexico City, of course. He returned home, but never recovered from the exposures of his trip and lived just long enough to learn of the approval of his plan by the Spanish Government at Mexico City. He died June 10, 1821. (His tomb is in Potosi.)

Stephen Austin then assumed the colonization task, the first of many such enterprises in the Southwest. He encountered many obstacles but by 1831 had brought in 5600 Anglo-Americans. Some of his immigrants died on the way and many returned home after brief stay in the new country.

In 1832, San Felipe was the scene of a convention looking to greater liberties under Mexican laws. Another convention was held in 1833 and it proposed a state constitution, to be sent to Mexico City for approval. Austin took it to the capital; was imprisoned there nearly two years, including three months in a former dungeon of the Inquisition, and relations grew much worse.

Upon his return to Texas, Austin found a revolution starting and volunteers organizing for battle. A provisional government was formed and Austin, Branch Archer and William Wharton were appointed commissioners to seek aid from the United States. He visited the United States in 1836 and returned home in June of that year, a very sick man. His sufferings in prison had undermined his health and he took to his bed, never to arise.

Hometowners

From the Editors' Newslitter (Southern Illinois University)

How does an editor refer to residents of his town? We noticed in the Olney Daily Mail, for example, that Harry Hillis calls Olney citizens "Olneyans" rather than "Olneyites" or "Olneyers."

As we pondered the Olney situation, a few interesting possibilities for other Southern Illinois towns came to mind. We offer them to the editors concerned without charge, since that's about what

Between Book Ends The Big Ditches

THE CANAL BUILDERS, by Robert Payne. (Macmillan, 278 pgs., $5.)

The story of canal building goes back to the darkest beginnings of human history. It started apparently in Mesopotamia or Egypt where irrigation ditches were needed to distribute the waters of the Nile more evenly than Nature had planned for.

The author, a British writer with a great number of books to his credit, tells the exciting story of the canals throughout the ages, and also makes it clear that canals, as a rule, have considerable political implications because of their strategic value. (At least this was true before the missile age.) The importance of the Panama Canal and the Suez Canal has been demonstrated to us in recent years quite forcibly.

Canals also affect the social and economic structure of a community, because they reduce distances, simplify the transportation of goods, and lower the costs of shipping.

The author is particularly interested in the political and financial difficulties which most of the canal builders had to overcome, and thus necessarily his story becomes a commentary on historical events rather than a discussion of the actual building of canals. Many points which should have been elucidated are not followed up. For instance, we learn that the Greeks and Romans built canals which they channeled through mountains by means of tunnels. Naturally, one would like to know how they could accomplish such feats without dynamite or other technically developed tools.

How was it possible to build canals with nothing more than spades? The answer is that most of the canals of the world, including the Suez Canal, were built with slave labor. When there were objections to the use of slave labor in the construction of the Suez Canal, its builder, Ferdinand de Lesseps, answered indignantly: "In Egypt, slavery is the most normal thing in the world." In this respect, too, the history of canal building is a commentary on the development of human relationships.

It is interesting to note that technically there has been no basic change in the concept of canals. The use of locks has been known at least since the fifteenth century. Leonardo da Vinci's genius perfected the theory of locks to such a degree that the author can rightfully say of him: "Never before had there been a man so skilled in the understanding of the flow of water, and no one like him ever came afterward."

Today, giant machines are moving the earth, instead of shovels, and our locks are no longer made of wood, but the principles of canal building have not changed. And they won't change either in the foreseeable future.

BIDS FOR MOVING TRACKS AT RIVER TO BE OPENED

Bids for relocation of the elevated railroad tracks at the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial site will be opened Monday by the National Park Service.

Placing the tracks in a tunnel will be the first big step in development of the $30,000,000 Mississippi riverfront memorial park. Plans call for award of a contract for construction of the tunnel in a week or 10 days. Groundbreaking ceremonies marking the long-awaited start of work on the memorial are to be held June 23.

The memorial park, with its museums picturing frontier life and its 500-foot arch of stainless steel, is expected to be a bigger attraction than Yellowstone National Park, according to George B. Hartzog Jr., superintendent of the memorial.

Yellowstone has a season of only 10 to 12 weeks, attracting about 1,500,000 visitors annually," he explained. "The memorial in St. Louis, with its central location, its ready accessibility and its year-round operation, should attract from 1,500,000 to 3,000,000 persons a year."

Hopes for obtaining additional federal funds this year to expedite work on the memorial faded yesterday when the Senate Appropriations Committee omitted money for the project from an appropriation bill for the Interior Department.

Members of the St. Louis area delegation in Congress, who had asked the committee to provide $2,000,000 for the project, said they did not expect to try to have the money added to the bill when the measure is considered by the Senate. This would preclude any possibility of including the funds in the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Instead of pressing further for funds now, members of the St. Louis area delegation favor waiting until after the next session of Congress convenes in January. At that time the money could be sought through introduction of a supplemental appropriation measure.

The St. Louisans were told that Conrad L. Wirth, director of the National Park Service, in opposing additional funds for the Mississippi riverfront project, said recently that by the end of 1959 a clearer picture could be obtained of how much additional money could be used on the development in the near future. He suggested a supplemental appropriation be sought if it is found necessary at that time.

A delay until early in 1960 in seeking additional funds should not delay work on the project, members of the delegation added. Although most of the money now available is expected to be committed by the end of this month, the work to be undertaken with these funds will continue for many months.

PARTY FOR PATIENTS OF CHRONIC HOSPITAL

Patients at St. Louis Chronic Hospital were entertained and served refreshments yesterday at the fifteenth annual lawn party given by the Board of Religious Organizations at the institution.

About 100 volunteer women from the board assisted patients able to leave their wards to go to the lawn, where music was provided by Jackie Fields and his orchestra through the courtesy of Local 2 of the Musicians Union.

The volunteers furnished more than 350 pounds of home-made cookies, soft drinks and ice cream. Patients unable to leave the wards were served by the volunteers.

DAN R. ROBERTSON, AIR PIONEER, DIES

Dan R. Robertson, aviation pioneer, died of a heart ailment yesterday at his office at Skinner & Kennedy Co., 412 North Fourth street. He was 52 years old and had been under medical care for several years.

Mr. Robertson was a pilot on the Chicago-St. Louis air mail route operated by his two older brothers, the late Maj. William B. Robertson and the late Frank H. Robertson. Other early pilots of the four surplus World War I planes of the Robertson Aircraft Corp. included Charles A. Lindbergh and the late Philip R. Love. Flying the mail over unlighted and unmarked routes was hazardous in the pioneer days.

The first St. Louis Robin, manufactured at the Curtiss-Robertson plant at Lambert-St. Louis Field, was test flown by Dan Robertson. His brother, Maj. Robertson, was president of the company. The Robin later became famous as the endurance flight plane of the late Dale Jackson and the late Forrest O'Brien.

Dan Robertson had a narrow escape when the engine of a Robin he was piloting in a transcontinental air race, exploded in the air near Carthage, Ind., in September 1928. The propeller and engine were torn from the plane at an altitude of 1000 feet, and the pilot made a crash landing in the fuselage on a farm. The wreck burned, but Mr. Robertson escaped with minor injuries.

Leaving St. Louis in 1929, Mr. Robertson became the private pilot for a wealthy Mexican and organized a flying school at Mexico City. Following a political upheaval in Mexico, he returned to St. Louis and was employed by his brother as an airplane salesman. He also became a member of the old 110th Observation Squadron, Missouri Air National Guard, in which Lindbergh and Love joined.

In 1940 Mr. Robertson joined the Parks Air College organization as an instructor of military pilots, who were being trained for the Army under contract. In 1944 he was named chief instructor. Following World War II he became associated with the Skinner & Kennedy Co.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Dollie Corbett Robertson, with whom he lived at Hillsboro, Mo., two daughters, Miss Susan Robertson and Mrs. Harold W. Stark Jr., and three sisters, Mrs. Edwin J. Uhl, Mrs. George W. Bonnell and Mrs. J. Frank Martin Sr.

Mr. Robertson attended dedication ceremonies last month at which the Air National Guard Base at Lambert-St. Louis Field was named in honor of Maj. William B. Robertson, first commander of the Air Guard Unit, Robertson, Mo., adjacent to the airport, was named in honor of the Robertson brothers.

Funeral services will be at 2:30 p.m. Monday at Alexander & Sons undertaking establishment, 6175 Delmar boulevard, with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

RELIGION IN SCHOOL PROGRAM PROPOSED

By JOHN T. STEWART
Church Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A limited program for teaching religion in the public schools is proposed in a statement on "Religion and Public Education" issued this week by the Metropolitan Church Federation.

"Public schools should and can teach a understanding and an appreciation of the historical importance of religion to the individual and in our culture," the statement asserts.

"Public schools should encourage behavior expressing support of moral and spiritual values basic to our American democracy," the federation states. "Happily, there is substantial agreement among our people, religious and non-religious in outlook, about the importance of truthfulness, justice, respect for others, kindness, and the like," the statement continues.

"Teachers ought to point out that we hold many sanctions for our values and that many of our citizens, probably the large majority of them, hold religious sanctions for them. The schools should not by emphasis or omission imply that these values are unimportant. They should at all times maintain a climate conducive to the support of commitments made in home, church, or synagogue."

The statement proposed that public schools "should seek to improve interfaith understanding" by teaching students to appreciate major religious days. "To do this," it adds, "authentic, accurate information approved by the faith groups concerned should be provided to improve this interfaith understanding."

Other paragraphs in the statement include the following: "Public schools should and must avoid the indoctrination of pupils in any particular faith—such indoctrination being the responsibility of the home and the church."

"That the right of parents to choose non-public education for their children must be recognized and protected; however, this does not relieve them of their responsibility to share in supporting free public education for all children."

"The separation of church and state as set forth in the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Missouri must be maintained."

The church federation points out that the statement represents a two and a half year study by its Commission on Religion and Public Education. It has been approved by the executive board of the federation.

NOVENA AT ST. GABRIEL'S

LUTHERAN THEOLOGIANS TO HOLD CONCLAVE

Fifty theologians representing Lutheran churches in 12 countries will take part in a theological conference to be held at California Concordia College, Oakland, Wednesday through Friday.

The conference is sponsored by the Committee on Doctrinal Unity of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. The Rev. Dr. Alfred O. Fuerbringer, president of Concordia Theological Seminary, is chairman of the committee, and he will preside at the sessions.

The Rev. Mr. Rees was born in South Wales of Welsh speaking parents in 1917. He received his B. A. degree at Wycliffe Hall, Oxford. Before completion of his studies and his ordination to the priesthood, he worked for two years as a coal miner in South Wales.

In World War II, although ordained, the Rev. Mr. Rees served as a combatant in the British air-sea rescue forces and took part in the Normandy landings.

After the war, he served as curate in a garrison town in Yorkshire, and later, in a slum parish in Leeds. He has been rector of Blendworth since 1950, with responsibility for churches at Charlton and Idsworth.

DR. DAHLBERG HONORED

The Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, pastor of Delmar Baptist Church and president of the National Council of Churches, will preach the baccalaureate sermon at his alma mater, the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, tomorrow. He was graduated there in 1914.

At a dinner at the university this evening, the Rev. Dr. Dahlberg will receive the Distinguished Alumni Award—a recognition which was also given to his brother, Henry W. Dahlberg of Denver, Colo., last December.

SEMINARIES TO MERGE

The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. will consolidate its two theological seminaries at Pittsburgh, Pa., it was announced last week.

The present Pittsburgh-Xenia Seminary and Western Seminary will be merged under the name of the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary of the denomination. The merger is scheduled to take effect at the beginning of the 1960-61 academic year.

Counseling Rated High

Pastoral counseling is as important as preaching, according to a majority of ministers of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. The clergy's views were solicited in a three-year survey by the denomination's Board of Christian Education.

ST. MARK'S RECTOR SERVES EXCHANGE

The Rev. William Murray Kenney, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, 4714 Clifton avenue, is on his way to England, where he will serve as an exchange rector for one year. His parish there will be Holy Trinity Church, Blendworth, Hornden Hants, which is near Portsmouth.

The Rev. William Rees, rector of Holy Trinity Church, will begin his year of service at St. Mark's Church Sunday, June 14. He and his wife and their three children will live in the rector's house.

The Rev. Mr. Kenney, his wife and their four children sailed from Montreal Tuesday. They will return about June 1, 1960.

The Anglican clergy exchange program was approved by the Rt. Rev. Arthur C. Lichtenberger, Presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher.

The Rev. Mr. Rees was born in South Wales of Welsh speaking parents in 1917. He received his B. A. degree at Wycliffe Hall, Oxford. Before completion of his studies and his ordination to the priesthood, he worked for two years as a coal miner in South Wales.

AMERICAN BAPTISTS HOLDING CONVENTION

A large delegation of St. Louis Baptist ministers and lay persons are attending the American Baptist Convention at Des Moines, Ia., which opened Thursday and will adjourn Tuesday.

Seven Baptist churches in St. Louis belong to the A.B.C.—Delmar, Des Peres, Fourth, Second, Third, Webster Groves, and West Park Churches. Six of the seven churches also belong to the Southern Baptist Convention, while Second Baptist Church is affiliated only with A.B.C.

The Rev. Leon R. Robison, pastor of Second Baptist Church, Mrs. Robison, and six other members of that church are attending the Des Moines convention. The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Sterling L. Price lead a delegation from Third Baptist Church. Other delegates from this church include Mr. and Mrs. Delmo Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Swann, and Lisle Ramsey. Delegates from Delmar Church include the Rev. LaRue A. Loughhead, associate pastor; Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth I. Brown and Mrs. Paul B. Compton.

Seventeen Baptist churches in Missouri belong to the American Baptist Convention; 14 of them also hold membership in the Southern Baptist Convention.

The Missouri Fellowship A.B.C. churches was organized in St. Louis last May 1. The president of the state body is the Rev. Dr. Ulysses S. Randall, who has been pastor of West Park Baptist Church since 1933; he and Mrs. Randall are attending the Des Moines convention.

Another delegate from St. Louis is the Rev. G. Elmo Purvis, pastor of Webster Groves Baptist Church. A.B.C. represents some 6500 local churches, with a total membership of 1,500,000. Mrs. Maurice B. Hodge of Portland, Ore., is president of the convention.

Lay Preachers Proposed

The Evangelical and Reformed Church (United Church of Christ) is seriously considering commissioning lay leaders and lay readers in order to meet the acute shortage of ordained clergy, according to the Rev. Dr. John R. C. Haas of Evansville, Ind., first vice president of the church.

SENATE RACKETS UNIT SUBPENAS HAROLD GIBBONS

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 6—Harold J. Gibbons, leader of the St. Louis Teamsters' Union, is one of more than 100 witnesses subpoenaed to appear before the Senate Labor Rackets Investigating Committee in hearings scheduled to begin June 15, it was learned today.

Many members of the union who refused to testify previously on the ground of possible self-incrimination have been recalled and will be placed on the witness stand again, it was said.

Among other St. Louisans scheduled to appear at the new hearings are Harry Karsh, who organized the carnival workers, and Joseph Bommarito and Herman Hendricks, previously linked by witnesses to violence in a 1953 taxicab strike.

Karsh and Bommarito cited the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination in refusing to testify before the committee, last August. Hendricks, an employee of the union, was subpoenaed previously but did not take the stand.

New Evidence.

It was expected that the witnesses will be questioned about new evidence found by investigators for the committee since the 1958 hearings. A committee spokesman indicated the Senators will seek to determine what Gibbons, International vice president of the union, and James R. Hoffa, general president, have done to carry out promises to clean up the union.

Karsh refused to answer questions about his part in the disputed January 1958 election of officers of Teamsters' Joint Council 13 in St. Louis. Seven votes cast by delegates of Karsh's Local 447, Carnival Workers' Union, were challenged by opponents of Gibbons, who was elected council president by only five votes.

Silent About Injury.

Bommarito, who was appointed president of Taxicab Drivers' Local 405 last February by Gibbons, refused to answer questions about a back injury he allegedly received attempting to overturn a taxicab in the St. Louis strike.

The taxicab union head was asked by Senator John L. McClellan (Dem., Arkansas, chairman of the committee, if he was "one of the thugs Gibbons is using to run this union." Bommarito refused to answer the question.

Hoffa himself is expected to be called to the stand about a week after Gibbons, who is his executive assistant. Both men will be asked again about charges of abuse of power and wrongdoing by Teamster officials.

SPEEDING YOUTH CHASED BY POLICE TO HIS OWN HOME

Patrick Noransky, a student, drove his automobile at speeds up to 75 miles an hour early today, attempting to elude an East St. Louis police car, officers reported.

The chase began when police saw Noransky's machine traveling at high speed on Summit avenue near Fifty-ninth street. Noransky ignored the police car's red light and siren and violated several boulevard stop signs over a circuitous route, police said.

The pursuit ended when Noransky turned into the driveway of his home, 1401 North Twenty-fifth street, East St. Louis. When officers attempted to arrest him he kicked at them and used abusive language, police reported.

He is to face charges of reckless driving, speeding and disorderly conduct in a hearing June 15. He was released on bond.

INQUISITIVE HORSE ENDS UP IN NEW BUILDING TRENCH

OGDEN, Utah, June 6 (AP)—A horse wandered over to inspect construction of a new department store last night. It did not reckon with the uncertain terrain.

Workmen on the morning shift were confronted with the problem of getting the horse out of a four-foot trench. They did it by shoveling away a side of the trench.

The animal was taken to the city dog pound, to await claim by its owner. Officials said the horse, which was not injured, did about $200 damage to conduit being laid in the trench.

CANADA PREMIER GETS PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE VIA MOON

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., June 6 (AP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today received a message from President Eisenhower bounced off the moon and prepared one that may follow a similar course back to the President.

The two leaders exchanged greetings on the opening of a new government radar laboratory here, to work with the United States Millstone laboratory near Boston. Diefenbaker announced at the opening ceremonies that Canada will launch an earth satellite in 1961 with United States co-operation.

The President's message—emphasizing co-operation between Canada and the United States—was recorded by the laboratory here a few days ago from a Millstone laboratory radio transmission bounced off the moon. Diefenbaker's reply was sent to Boston by landline and at the same time recorded for transmission via the moon at a later date.

Diefenbaker said Canada is designing a high-altitude rocket "which has every indication of being a highly efficient research instrument" and intends to provide instruments for rockets which will be fired by the United States.

deep gorges, there is enough room for rocket sites and for having in readiness weapons against the enemy who sets up his rockets against the socialist countries."

The Soviet Premier made no direct reference to the Geneva foreign ministers conference, nor to a possible summit meeting, but he said frequent meetings of statesmen always helped "remove any dust that might have settled on relations between countries."

Khrushchev returned today to prepare for a meeting with East German leaders that could produce a decision on the Berlin situation.

He told of his trip to Albania and Hungary in a nation-wide radio and television address from the indoor pavilion of the Lenin Stadium.

12 ALLEGED GAMBLERS SEIZED IN POLICE RAID

Twelve men arrested in a gambling raid at a former store at 714 Cole street yesterday were booked for police court appearances Monday.

Carr Street District officers, led by Lt. Arthur Havy, blocked exits after a man who had been sitting on the sidewalk ran inside. Lt. Havy said the men were standing around a table on which there were playing cards. When searched at the police station, the prisoners had a total of $2000. Eighteen decks of cards were seized.

The prisoners included James Giamanco, 38 years old, living in the 4000 block of Cleveland avenue, and Joseph Gilberti, 52, 700 block of Cole street, both of whom have records of arrests suspected of gambling and other offenses. James Pumo, who lives in the former store, said the other men were friends of his engaged in a friendly card game. All were released on bond.

FEDERAL MEDIATION SERVICE QUILTS RUBBER STRIKE TALKS

CLEVELAND, June 6 (AP)—The Federal Mediation Service withdrew temporarily yesterday from negotiations between the Firestone Rubber Co. and the striking United Rubber Workers, in hopes that direct bargaining might lead to an agreement.

More than 18,000 Firestone employees in eight cities have been on strike since April 16. Nicholas M. Fillo, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and two other mediators joined the deadlocked talks Wednesday.

The U.R.W. also has been striking against the B. F. Goodrich Co., involving 14,000 workers, since April 16. The contract dispute involves pension plans, hospitalization insurance, supplemental unemployment benefits, a four-

MAILMAN RETURNS FROM 'WONDERFUL' VISIT TO NORWAY

Kirkwood letter carrier Francis E. Maher, America's first "exchange mailman," was back home today after a month in Norway. He returned with warm praise for his Norwegian hosts and presents for his wife and two children.

"They were wonderful—I can't express it in any other terms," said Maher, who lives at 1762 Janet place. In Oslo, Maher worked with Norway's exchange mailman Birger Amot, who will arrive in St. Louis Wednesday to repay the visit.

Maher said Norway had an excellent mail service, with two residential deliveries a day. Their letter carriers walk about as much as ours do, he said. The little red, white and blue delivery scooter Maher took to Norway made a great hit. Mail volume in Norway is much smaller, the Kirkwood emissary reported. His general impression was: "They don't have the hustle and bustle we have. They do things in a more leisurely way, and they're very happy."

CASTRO OFFERS TO SELL U.S. SUGAR AT CUT RATE

HAVANA, June 6 (AP)—Premier Fidel Castro has notified the United States Agriculture Department that Cuba is prepared to offer the United States 8,000,000 tons of sugar at four cents a pound in 1961.

The Cuban leader said the offer was intended to quell Agriculture Department fears about the effects of his agrarian reform on Cuban sugar production.

The removal of restrictions on United States domestic sugar production is unnecessary, Castro asserted. He said, "Cuba can produce the total United States sugar needs, saving the American public more than $300,000,000 annually." The price Castro suggests would compare with the 5.50 cents a pound which now is charged for delivery of Cuban raw sugar to the United States.

MRS. STARBIRD IS SPEAKER AT MARYVILLE GRADUATION

Young people must build up reserves of strength in order to meet crises adequately, Mrs. Adele Chomeau Starbird, retiring dean of women at Washington University and a columnist for the Post-Dispatch, said yesterday.

Speaking at the eighty-seventh annual commencement at Maryville College, Mrs. Starbird said that in character, just as in physics or banking, there must always be "a reserve, a surplus, an extravagant safety factor."

Degrees were conferred on 29 graduates by Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter. The Rev. Fenton J. Runge was celebrant at benediction which opened the commencement exercises.

OBJECTOR TO U.S. WHEAT CURBS REACHES AUSTRALIA

SYDNEY, Australia, June 6 (UPI)—Self-exiled Michigan farmer Stanley Yankus arrived by ship in Australia today to begin a new life far away from farm acreage controls.

"As far as I myself am concerned I never plan to return to the United States," Yankus said. His son Dennis, 12, had only this to say: "I wanna go home."

Mrs. Yankus said she had never been more than 200 miles from home before this and the decision to leave Michigan because Yankus objected to United States Agriculture Department controls on the amount of wheat he could plant was "a big wrench to us." Yankus said his wife was not happy about coming to Australia but had resigned herself to the fact.

HIGHER MONEY COST TO BOOST TIME PAYMENTS

By New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, June 6—The higher cost of money is reaching the family that buys an automobile, a television set or an air conditioner on "time." Leading New York City banks are studying an imminent increase in the rates consumers must pay on installment loans.

The First National City Bank of New York, largest bank lender in the New York area, is expected to take the lead by announcing an increase of 50 cents a year on the amount discounted in advance from each $100 of installment and personal loans. This would increase the rate for automobile loans to 4.25 discount for each $100 and for personal loans to 4.75.

Including life insurance that pays off the debt if the borrower dies, the rate on automobile loans would rise to 4.75 for each $100. Most personal loans include this insurance.

Alan H. Temple, vice chairman of the First National City, had "absolutely no comment" today on a report that the bank plans to put the new rates in effect June 15.

Other New York City banks conceded that they were following the situation closely but had made no decision to follow First National City. Five other banks are major consumer lenders: The Manufacturers Trust Co., Chase Manhattan Bank, Chemical Bank, Bank of America, and Industrial Bank of Commerce.

With First National City, they account for 85 per cent of the bank consumer loan business in the city, estimated at $2,500,000,000 to $2,750,000,000.

Three major sales finance companies were reported to be readying announcements of rate increases to consumers. Unlike the New York City banks, these concerns operate nationally and their moves would affect a much wider group of borrowers.

Rates charged by banks outside New York and by other lenders generally are higher. The New York banks are permitted by law to charge up to $6 discount for each $100 of personal loans—roughly 12 per cent a year—but have not since the mid-1930's.

Riverfront

The Plaza area after it was declared blighted. Urging more speed, Elbert said it was unfair to owners to have their property declared blighted and remain under that cloud for five years before anything is done.

The area specified in the bill covers 12 blocks between Third and Fourth streets from Washington avenue to Wai... street and three blocks bounded by Fourth and Market streets, Broadway and Clark avenue.

Plans Announced.
Kitchen has offered a plan to put up two 40-story apartment buildings in the area. Irvin Goldfarb, St. Louis developer, announced this week plans for a $2,500,000 motel there.

Any plans for developing the area will have to receive the approval of both the City Plan Commission and the Board of Aldermen.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker and Sidney Maestre, board chairman of Downtown in St. Louis, Inc., both expressed gratification over passage of the bill placing a blighted label on the riverfront tract. They consider the legislation an integral part of the movement to rejuvenate the downtown area.

CUBAN POLICE REPORT BREAKING BATISTA PLOT

SANTIAGO, Cuba, June 6 (UPI)—Police announced last night that they had broken up a counter-revolutionary plot against the government with the arrest of 12 supporters of ex-President Fulgencio Batista.

Arms, ammunition, uniforms and other military supplies were seized in a surprise raid on five houses in the center of this city, an official announcement said.

Police said they discovered the plot in the course of a kidnapping investigation. They were looking for the abducted wife of Army Lt. Modesto Ruiz Hidalgo. Mrs. Ruiz Hidalgo was found and led authorities to the house where she had been held. The landlady then told police of conspiratorial meetings of former Batista military men.

FOUR CHILDREN ARE KILLED

MULVANE, Kan., June 6 (AP)—Four children were killed and their mother was injured seriously in a truck-auto collision southeast of Mulvane yesterday.

The dead were Ruth Ann Lewis, 10 years old and her brothers, Ronald, 8; Allan, 4; and Mark, 1. The mother, Mrs. Harold Lewis, was reported in serious condition in a Wichita hospital. The truck driver was injured also.

Symphonic Cannon Fire.

TOKYO, June 6 (AP)—Northwest Tokyo was momentarily alarmed last night over cannon fire—from a war nearly 150 years ago. Besieged by telephone calls, the United States Air Force said 105 mm. howitzers had been fired to lend realism to a Tokyo philharmonic performance of Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture" at Camp Drake, outside Tokyo.

Woman Has Baby, Takes Exams To Become Doctor at Same Time

RICHMOND, Va., June 6 (AP)—Mrs. Joyce Saunders had a baby May 18. The same week she took four exams for her doctor's medical degree.

Her husband, Grier, spent his time as an expectant father grinding through final exams in economics at the University of Richmond.

It's all over now but the diaper changing. Mrs. Saunders will be graduated tomorrow from the Medical College of Virginia. Grier will be graduated Monday.

Mrs. Saunders's labor pains began about an hour before her first exam May 18. After the three-hour test on a school course in surgery, she filled out hospital admittance forms, drove to her doctor's office then called her husband.

They met at their apartment, put her suitcase and a pile of textbooks into the car and rushed back to the hospital. Susan Elizabeth Saunders was born in late afternoon. On her way out of the delivery room, Mrs. Saunders called her husband back to the nursery, she said. "I tried to study, but I'm afraid my mind kept wandering back to the nursery," she said. The next morning her professor arrived with the test and tacked a sign on the door: "Do not disturb—taking exam."

"I was a little groggy, but I passed," she said. Wednesday morning, May 20, she took an oral exam in obstetrics because her hands were too stiff to write. Her last exam—in medicine and lasting all day—was May 22.

After Mrs. Saunders takes her state board exams, the family will move to Bryn Mawr, Pa. She will intern at a hospital there and her husband will go into business in Philadelphia.

BOOKIE PROTECTION DENIED BY HAMMOND (IND.) MAYOR

HAMMOND, Ind., June 6 (AP)—Mayor Edward C. Dowling said yesterday that gambling in Hammond "gets no protection" and is not being ignored by police as testimony before the Senate Rackets Committee indicated. His statement was issued in rebuttal to testimony in Washington Thursday by Michael Kampio Jr., an investigator for the Lake county's prosecutor's office and a Democratic factional opponent of Dowling.

Kampio, who is Hammond Democratic chairman, said he was aware that a bookie joint was operating for six years next door to his Hammond furniture store. He added that he made no move to close it down because it was the job of the Hammond police to raid it.

Kampio told the Senate Rackets Committee that the bookie moved to a new location several months ago, leaving a large sign at the old place giving his new address. The committee is investigating alleged gambling rackets in Lake county where Hammond is located.

LAKE CHARLES CEMETERY RECEIVERSHIP IS SOUGHT

A hearing to show why a receiver should not be appointed to administer assets and properties of Lake Charles Memorial Park, Inc., which operates Lake Charles Cemetery, was set for June 30 yesterday by Circuit Judge Noah Weinstein at Clayton.

In their petition for appointment of a receiver, plaintiffs alleged that the defendants failed and neglected to report the sales of lots in the cemetery from month to month, or to make payments to trustees for the perpetual care fund.

Plaintiffs are Lenore C. Pehle, Thomas C. Ross, Isadore Contin, Mary E. Worsham, Roy E. Garrett and Estelle Brink. Defendants are Horace Beedle, Roy L. Johnson, Robert W. Mayssack, William H. and Cabot R. Hogg, Margaret E. Holman, Carl S. Gissler, James Joyce, Carl F. Kirchoff, Mary Hatfield, Carson Road Cemetery Co. and Lake Charles Memorial Park Inc.

CUBA'S DOMINICAN REPUBLIC EMBASSY WRECKED BY MOB

CIUDAD, TRUJILLO: Dominican Republic, June 6 (UPI)—Refugee followers of former Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista attacked the Cuban embassy here last night to climax a day of violence that left two persons dead and one wounded.

The refugees gained entrance to the embassy building, wrecked some of the furniture and tried to set a fire. Police ejected them.

The action had started off with the Batista group simply picketing the embassy with protest signs.

CHICAGO SCHOOL FIRE HERO GETS MEDAL FROM NIXON

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—A Chicago milkman who rescued 10 children from a disastrous school fire was given a hero's medal yesterday by Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He presented the Louis Pasteur Gold al to Casimir Janik, 38 years old, "in gratitude and recognition for outstanding heroism."

Janik was credited with carrying at least 10 youngsters from Our Lady of the Angels School in a fire last Dec. 1. Three guns and 91 children died in the blaze.

Janik was accompanied to Washington by his wife for the ceremony in Nixon's office.

E. H. AUGUSTUS ELECTED NATIONAL SCOUT PRESIDENT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6 (AP)—Ellsworth Hunt Augustus, Cleveland business leader, was elected president of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America yesterday.

Augustus, active in scouting leadership for 19 years, will take over as the Boy Scouts ninth national president since the founding in 1910.

Augustus, 61 years old, succeeds Kenneth K. Bechtel, San Francisco insurance executive who has served as president since 1956. Augustus, a Navy veteran of World War II, is president of Kilroy Drilling Co. and a director of the National City Bank in Cleveland.

45 KILLED IN BRAZIL WHEN TRAINS COLLIDE

SAO PAULO, Brazil, June 6 (UPI)—Two commuter trains collided head on near a suburban station in the rush hour last night, killing 45 persons and injuring more than 70 others.

The dead included 37 men, five women and three children. The trains were moving on the same track at about 25 miles an hour when they collided. Officials said one of the trains had been switched to a siding, but through error had been sent back on the main line.

The collision occurred near a station eight miles from the downtown section of Sao Paulo, Brazil's second largest city. The outgoing train was jammed with home-bound workers while the other was heading into the city. The last major railroad accident in Brazil occurred last July when a collision took 126 lives. A similar accident in March 1957 killed 67 persons, and 119 persons died in a 1952 tragedy.

Dr. Hans Einstein Married.
BERKELEY, Calif., June 6 (AP)—Dr. Hans Albert Einstein, 55 years old, son of the late Albert Einstein, and Dr. Elizabeth Robox, 56, Stanford University medical professor, were married yesterday. Dr. Einstein is professor of hydraulic engineering at the University of California.

Belgian Prince and Fiancee

Prince Albert of Belgium, brother of King Baudouin, greeting his fiancée, Princess Paola Ruffo di Calabria of Italy on her arrival in Brussels yesterday for their wedding July 2. Original plans to hold the wedding at the Vatican with Pope John performing the ceremony, were changed after Socialists protested that Albert, as heir apparent, should be married at home.

Full House at Animal Shelter

Surrounded by dogs in pen crowded to capacity, Field Supervisor James Ray of the Animal Protective Association of Missouri stoops to pet basset hound. The animal shelter at 1705 South Hanley road, Brentwood, has 200 dogs on hand, as compared with a normal 65 to 70, as a result of the intensified drive on stray animals started after

2 1/2-year-old Mark D. Draper was killed last May 23 by a pack of dogs near his home in Hazelwood. Ray says that unless some of the 100 dogs now ready for adoption are taken by pet lovers they will have to be destroyed.

NATO Talk

Queen Elizabeth II addressing representatives of 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations at the opening session of the first Atlantic Congress in London's historic Westminster Hall yesterday. With the Queen on the platform are Prince Philip and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan (right). The assemblage, which included professors, bishops, editors and legislators meeting as private citizens, heard the Queen express the hope that the conference will bring the Atlantic community "one step nearer to a practical system of co-operation."

any wound he suffered while a wolf.

Werewolf tales were spread far and wide. Here, in shortened form, is an account given by a writer 345 years ago.

"The werewolves are magicians with knowledge from the devil. They place enchantment on their bodies, also a girl. Then they become dangerous wolves. As long as the girl is kept, the nature of the wolf is kept. They go forth to bite and kill. Human beings are their chief victims."

The belief in werewolves lingered in a few parts of Europe into modern times. Toward the end of the past century, an account was published about a gypsy woman in Hungary. She was supposed to have been a werewolf a few years before, making sheep her victims. By this means, "was said, she had kept her family in mutton."
